Many flood victims find insurance won't replace losses

By Alison McGonagle

Many Andover flood victims say their National Flood Insurance Policies are not providing them with the financial help they need to repair their homes and replace their belongings.

NFIPs are a quasi-governmental policies required to be taken out by property owners whose loans are backed by federal agencies. With NFIPs, properties insured to 80 percent of their value are eligible to receive new replacements of damaged property, according to Paul Ford, natural hazards program specialist with he Federal Emergency Management Agency.

But Paul Bettano, board of trustees chairman of the Balmoral Condominium – the Andover building most damaged in the flooding – said the insurance is not going to cover much of the damage to the Balmoral since it occurred below street level.

"There are exclusions for any property below street level, and in those cases the policy only pays for replacement of sheet rock. It's a pyramid scheme. The federal government requires that we buy this insurance, but we can't use all of it. We are insured for two times as much as the coverage we will receive," he said.

The Balmoral is required to insure for 80 percent of its value, because it

Support for I-93 ramps

But task force says town should hire own traffic experts

By Brian Davidson

A huge step has been taken in the effort to have an Interstate 93 Lowell Junction interchange built in Andover. And local officials are lining up to offer their support for new ramps, even if some Ballardvale residents remain concerned the interchange might not reduce traffic on local roads.

The Merrimack Valley Planning Commission has submitted an interchange justification report to the Massachusetts and Federal Highway Departments after determining that an interchange in the Ballardvale area would be beneficial to both the local communities and the state.

"This has been going on for a long time, so it's great to see it take off and get to the state of a justification report," said Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. "I'm very excited that we have come this far and I'm looking forward to working with Tewksbury and Wilmington to make this a reality."

Andover's Lowell Junction Interchange Task Force – a committee created to review the project from an Andover perspective – agrees the interchange is a tremendous opportunity. The idea behind the project is that it should both reduce commuter traffic on local streets and open up more commercial land to development. But in its summary report on the project, the task force did say "Andover must be cautious about accepting a new interchange at any price."

The task force recommended that Andover hire an independent traffic engineering firm to represent the town's interests as the design of the new interchange moves forward.

Paul Salafia, Andover Planning Board chairman and Merrimack Valley Planning Commissioner, shares Stapczynski's excitement, calling the construction of a Lowell Junction interchange "a win, Prices? What gas prices?

Station finds more travelers hitting road than last year

By Alison McGonagle

Seemingly, nothing will come between residents and their travel plans.

While gas prices have risen drastically, the travel habits of many local people remain unchanged, at least based on the evidence of Memorial Day weekend, the unofficial first week of summer.

Could this be a sign of what's to come this summer?

Residents gassed up more this year over the long weekend than last year, according to Henry Prussman, manager of the Getty station at the intersec-

Work to begin on indoor horse ring

Challenge Unlimited uses horses to provide special therapy

By Pete Smith
What's Up contributor

Having been thwarted by the unpredictable New England weather for more than 20 years, Challenge Unlimited at Ironstone Farm has finally begun constructing an indoor horse-riding arena.

That it rained on the non-profit organization's groundbreaking on Sunday only served to highlight the need for the indoor facility.

Challenge Unlimited was incorporated to use horseback riding to help special needs people.

In its mission statement, Ironstone Farm specifically looks to "provide effective therapy for individuals with physical, cognitive, and emotional disabilities, using horses and a working farm environment, while involving people in helping others through volunteer services."

While actual construction will not begin until June 12, Sunday's ceremony marked a great milestone.

"We had more than 100 people for the actual celebration, and we were only anticipating around 75. The crowd was very enthusiastic and supporting in spite of the rain, which was appropriate," said Deedee O'Brien. "The people at the event all understood need, and the rain highlighted that.

"We were fortunate to have a wonderful guest speaker who made the announcement to match what we've raised," she said. "All I can say is that I couldn't believe it was actually happening."

George D. Behrakis was the speaker who announced he would make a matching donation of $48,000 to the effort. Other events in the ceremony included a "Ride of Thanks" in which riders with skill levels that ranged from beginners to Special Olympic athletes walked, trotted, cantered and jumped to show their appreciation for Challenge Unlimited and Ironstone Farm. The event was capped off with a blessing of the ground by South Church's Rev. Dr. Calvin Mutti. The actual ground breaking which was carried out by B.J. Landry and Meredith Leonard.

The construction of an indoor ring has been the organization's primary focus for over four years now, and the farm hopes to complete the ring by the end of the summer.

Ironstone Farm off Route 133 was created in 1960 by Richard Donovan, and was initially focused on training and raising thoroughbreds. In the 1970s, Donovan entertained field trips to the farm by special needs children, and saw the therapeutic potential of his farm. In 1983, Ironstone farm incorporated Challenge Unlimited, and in 1985 the organization received tax exempt status as a non-profit organization.

The press and neighbors were not allowed onto the property of the cabana while the Zoning Board of Appeals made a site visit on Saturday.

Public hearing closed on cabana

By Alison McGonagle

The Zoning Board of Appeals closed its public hearing on a controversial 1,300 square foot cabana on Hazelwood Circle, after members walked the site Saturday morning.

The press and neighbors were not allowed to join the board on the property during the 7 a.m. walk, but after concluding the visit, the board voted 4-1 to close the public hearing on the site. Next up: a deliberative session on the issue, which has divided people in the area into pro- and anti-cabana camps. The next meeting's location has not been decided, but it will be held June 13 at 8:30 p.m.

In a petition to the Zoning Board, some neighbors have said the cabana is a second home because it can be used for sleeping, cooking and eating.

The owners, the Gibson family, and their attorney Mark Johnson, refute the claims, saying the cabana is an accessory building.

The cabana has been a contentious issue in the Ballardvale neighborhood around Hazelwood Circle since last July, when neighbors complained to the Conservation Commission.

The Gibsons received verbal permission from former Conservation Director James Greer to build the cabana in October 2004. They later received a building permit, and construction began in early 2005. But the Gibsons never received permission from the Conservation Commission for the project, and the town says its increased in size from the one Greer approved verbally.

The couple has said the project was 90 percent complete before neighbors raised concerns with the Conservation Commission and construction was stopped. Even after the zoning issue is resolved, there are still three other pending cases regarding the Conservation Commission's ruling that the cabana is too close to wetlands and is not exempt from the town's wetlands protection bylaw. Two appeals are in state Superior Court and one is being considered by the state Department of Environmental Protection.

James Hauer and Catherine Merritt-Hauer, the Gibsons' neighbors, at 4 Hazelwood Circle, said they made investments into their own home, including making their home wheelchair accessible to accommodate their "golden years." The cabana was not part of their retirement vision.

Neighbors opposed to the structure say it violates zoning measures, endangers the area's wetlands, and causes flooding on their properties.

The issue has one of the younger members of the neighborhood getting involved.

"Lots of people aren't realizing that the cabana is killing plants and animals," said Alexandra Valenti, a fourth grade student at Shore Country Day School who showed up to the 7 a.m. meeting with a homemade sign to present to the board. The sign had bar graphs showing the numbers of wildlife affected in the neighborhood before and after the cabana's construction.

Her father, Joseph Valenti, said he wants the Gibsons to at least get rid of the structure's second floor. The Valentis are abutters, living at 6 Acorn Drive.

Merritt-Hauer said the structure decreases her property value.

"I have no problem with development," Merritt-Hauer said, "but abide by zoning and construction bylaws."

Helping out after the flood

Andover High School junior P.J. Paonessa wanted to help town residents affected by the flood.

Rather than wait around, P.J. organized his own relief effort, soliciting neighbors for donations of non-perishible foods, clothing, furniture, children's toys, books, linens and bedspreads. He picked up the donations himself, and drove them up to the Red Cross of Derry, N.H., where they should be distributed to flood victims across New England.

The Red Cross suggests that those interested in making cash donations should send them to the local American Red Cross chapter, or to the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 37243, Washington, DC 20013. Internet users can make a secure online contribution by visiting www.redcross.org.

Those wishing to donate to a specific affected area need only designate the location at the time of donation.

The Colonial Theater on Essex Street opened in 1912. The building was later was named the Andover Playhouse in the 1950s and was also was once home to the Andover Senior Center. It was razed to expand the library parking lot in 1985.

Early bird discount on school bus fees

Before the 2003-04 school year, the Andover School Committee approved a student transportation policy that provides transportation to students in grades 7-12 on a fee basis. The fee established for the 2006-07 school year is $300. Families with more than two students in grades 7-12 shall not have to pay more than $600.

Students who pay the fee in full by June 15 may deduct $40 for one student and $80 when paying for two or more students, according to the schools. Therefore, if payment is received by June 15, the discounted price is $260 per student with a family maximum of $520.

Applications have been mailed home and applications are available on the school department Web site at www.aps1.net. Applications are also available for a free or reduced transportation fee based upon income.

Vacirca retiring

After 34 years, Superintendent-Director Frank S. Vacirca is retiring from Greater Lawrence Technical School. The school will host an open reception in his honor on Wednesday, June 14, from 4 to 7:30 p.m., with a presentation at 5:30 p.m. in the Greater Lawrence Technical School's Edward V. Coakley Dining Room, at 57 River Road.

A scholarship fund has been initiated in Vacirca's name. Checks should be made payable to: GLTS–Frank S. Vacirca Scholarship Fund.

35 acres eyed

Local housing advocates want to build 60 to 100 units of affordable housing next to Sanborn Elementary School, and neighbors of the proposed project aren't happy.

Although the Housing Partnership and Housing Authority have not decided exactly what kind of development they want to build, residents are concerned about the effects any large project would have on traffic and safety along Lovejoy Road.

About 50 people who live near the school packed Tuesday's School Committee meeting to hear a presentation.

The 35-acre parcel eyed for development is L-shaped, abutting Sanborn on the north and wrapping behind the school, alongside Interstate 93 just south of Route 133. The Housing Partnership and Authority are considering several options, including housing for seniors and families in rental and ownership units, Housing Partnership member Sarah Young said.

The schools recently received a consultant's report that said they need nearly 40 new classrooms to relieve overcrowding. School Committee Chairman Anthony James has said that several school building projects are likely in the near future. Giving up land for housing is "a complex decision, and it's not one we would make in haste," he said.

Housing Authority will make a more detailed presentation Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library.

Pipe replaced at Skug River

Last week, the Conservation Commission addressed concerns about a three-day pipe replacement job on Gray Road potentially affecting silt levels in the Skug River, which runs beneath the road, and is believed to be the smallest river in the United States.

Linda Cleary, conservation agent, was on the site in response to calls from concerned residents, she said. The job, which was being done by town contractors Bateson Enterprises, was being carried out in compliance with environmental standards, Cleary said.

The slopes on each side of the road were secured with rocks, instead of hay bales, which Cleary said would have washed away, and done more harm than good to the tiny river.

Seniors can volunteer, get tax break

Applications for the Senior Citizen Real Estate Property Tax Work-off Program are available at the Andover Senior Center, behind Town Offices, off Whittier Court. Qualified applicants can receive an exemption of $600 on their real estate tax bill in exchange for completing 100 hours of community service as assigned through the program.

To be eligible people must:

- be Andover residents age 60 or older.
- be the assessed owner of the property on which the tax is exempted.
- use the property as their primary residence.

While there are no income guidelines for first qualifying owner, a second qualifying owner may earn an exemption if he or she meets the income guidelines.

Applicants must:

- Submit an application at the senior center by 2 p.m. on June 30
- Complete a CORI or background check
- Commit to 100 hours of service as assigned, within specified time frame

New applicants must also attend an informational meeting at the senior center tomorrow, Friday, June 9 at 1:30 p.m.

"Can You Afford to Stay in Andover?" – part one of a Retirement Series called "Successful Aging in Place" – will focus on programs available to seniors to offset some of the costs of remaining in their homes.

Contact the senior center at 978-623-8321 for additional information.

Flood cleanup means 45 percent more trash

100 extra tons per week

By Brian Davidson

Town officials are hoping to soon see the flood of trash subside after the recent flood of rain ruined carpets, furniture and other items in many Andover households.

"On average, we're probably collecting about 100 more tons of trash per week than we usually do," said Sandra Gerraughty, business manager for the Department of Public Works. "We're hoping it will level off after this week."

Prior to the storm, the town was producing an average of about 220 tons of trash per week, on pace to reach 11,520 tons by the end of the year, according to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. If the 45-percent increase in tonnage during the past five weeks fell back to normal after this week, the flood will have created 500 tons of additional trash.

The bad news is, the town pays Wheelabrator trash incinerator in North Andover $64 per ton to dump trash. If the numbers are any indication, the rain storm will have cost the town about $32,000 in trash disposal that would otherwise not have to be paid.

The good news is, the town budget this year is based on 12,000 tons of trash, according to Stapczynski, and the Federal Emergency Management Association may help cover the extra cost anyway.

"We expect some reimbursement (from FEMA)," Stapczynski said. "But right now their first priority is residential assistance. They will get to the cities and towns in a few weeks."

Gerraughty said that trash collectors from BFI Allied Waste have been working 12- to 14-hour days since the flooding to keep trash pick-up on schedule.

"Some local communities are two or three days behind. It may take (Andover's trash collectors) longer per day, but we're not behind by days at all," she said.

Andover is under contract with BFI to pay $808,570 this fiscal year. Overtime hours for drivers will be paid for by the company at no extra cost to the town.

"I've had a minimal amount of complaints because the truck drivers have been doing such a fabulous job," said Gerraughty.

Many learning insurance will not replace what was lost

■ FLOOD INSURANCE

lies in what is considered a flood hazard zone.

Ford acknowledged there is limited coverage for basement properties, but said those insured to 80 percent of their value will receive more than sheet rock. They will receive funds to replace electrical boxes, circuit breakers, central air-conditioning equipment, and drywall in basements.

If a property is not insured to 80 percent of its value, and damage below street level occurs, only drywall will be replaced.

But in either scenario, no finishing or furniture replacement will be covered. At Balmoral, many residents take advantage of basement storage pens and will receive nothing for those losses.

Some Washington Park residents are in similar situations, according to condo owner Tom Middleton. He said he's been living alone at Washington Park for three years, and was advised upon purchasing the condo from its previous owner, to purchase an additional personal flood insurance policy, beyond the National Flood Insurance Policy mandated for the property by the government.

But Middleton has since learned that even having two insurance policies is not enough. Because part of his home is considered below street level, the only damage his policies cover is drywall replacement.

"No paint, nothing," said a discouraged Middleton, who at 75 years old remembers the flood of 1936. "If you're in the basement, you're out of luck. We should have been informed about gaps in coverage in advance.

"I never would have moved in if I knew," said Middleton.

Middleton said he is retired, and currently is staying with his daughter. He plans to use money he has put aside to cover the cost of repairing his damaged property. He said he simply does not know if he will remain at Washington Park.

"My brain is just scattered. I really don't know what is going on, or if I will stay," he said, adding that he may be out of his home for weeks or months.

86 homes gone in one building

Many of the people who used to live in the Balmoral are also unsure of their future.

The Balmoral is the hardest hit property in Andover, said Bettano, a former property manager, and current real estate developer. All of its 140 residents are currently displaced. Some families have been split up, going to live among relatives, friends and hotels. Some residents have been separated from their pets. For four families who lived in the basement, there is nothing left; everything was destroyed and will not be replaced by insurance. The building reports asbestos damage, oil damage, lost boilers and mold damage.

"The building could be closed one month, or three months. We just don't know," Bettano said. "To us, this is New Orleans. It's no different."

Bettano wonders if 86 families' homes on an Andover street were suddenly boarded up, without power or water, if the response would be different.

State Rep. Barry Finegold urges residents with concerns about insurance coverage to contact him, Rep. Barbara L'Italien or Sen. Susan Tucker at the Statehouse.

"The governor said that the insurance commissioner will be very aggressive about these issues," Finegold said. "We want people to get the most potential out of their insurance policies."

Finegold owns one rental unit at Balmoral Condominiums, but said he is far more concerned about residents in the basement units who lost everything.

Basement storage area not covered

Eight-year Balmoral Condominiums residents Beverly Stoebel and Barbara Cleveland each own condos on upper floors in the building. Even though neither reports damage to their units, all of their belongings in the basement storage area were lost. The losses will not be covered because anything lost below street level is uninsured.

"I applied to FEMA to subsidize the cost of my interim housing," Stoebel said. She and Cleveland are both waiting to hear the status of claims. In the meantime, after moving around six times since the initial flood, including to the home of her mother and to a hotel, Stoebel said is staying at an apartment she found in Lawrence.

"It's very hard because even though I have my apartment now," Stoebel said, "I cannot have my pets. I have to visit them at my mother's house. While Balmoral was animal-friendly, my new place is not."

Still, both women count themselves among the fortunate because they work for employers who have been flexible and sympathetic to the difficult situation.

Stoebel said she was "very proactive" in trying to secure herself the greatest amount of help possible. She called the Red Cross in North Andover looking for assistance, but aside receiving shelter in Methuen High School the first night, she said received no further assistance, though she did make many calls to the Red Cross's various offices.

Client Casework Supervisor Paula Harvey said that the Red Cross exists to assist people with imminent needs, such as food, shelter, medical care and mental health care.

"She didn't have a need for that," Harvey said. She also said that according to her records, several "good faith" attempts to reach Stoebel were made by the Red Cross. However, Stoebel said she did not receive the calls and at one point was given a message to contact the organization, and when she called, the number was disconnected.

"I made it clear that I want no contact with the Red Cross (now)," Stoebel said. "They have caused me nothing but stress."

Cleveland's wish is that the community pay more attention to its displaced neighbors. "No one realizes the tremendous devastation and emergency [at Balmoral] due to the beautiful exterior," she said. "The interior is gutted. That building houses 86 family homes. That's 140 people. Everyone in the building will have to bear the financial burden of replacing what's been lost."

The residents of the Balmoral Condominiums have set up a Balmoral Disaster Relief Fund at the Savings Bank on Main Street in hopes that some residents fortunate not to have lost property in the floods might help.

A meeting of residents and homeowners at Balmoral Condominiums was held last night, Wednesday, at 7 on the second floor of Old Town Hall.

Prayers for flood victims

With several town residents displaced from their homes due to the Mother's Day weekend flooding in town, West Parish Church is encouraging them to attend a special healing service next Wednesday night.

"The topic is prayer with meditation, music and movement. It's not what you think. It is much bigger than words. We hope that this speaks to the community, especially after the flooding," said church member Suetta Tenney.

The service is Wednesday, June 14 at 7 p.m. in the West Parish Chapel.

Homeowners' corporation seeks to drive weeds out of Foster's Pond

By Alison McGonagle

Town residents kept away from Foster's Pond on Monday, June 5, not only because of cloudy skies, but because an herbicide was being applied to a related body of water, Dug Pond.

Foster's Pond is threatened by a weed called fanwort. It is a non-native, highly aggressive weed, said Foster's Pond neighbor Steve Cotton. If left to its own devices, Cotton said the weed would choke the pond.

The Foster's Pond Corp., a group of residents who live near the pond, received permission to spray the herbicide Sonar in the pond last year. This year they are applying the same treatment to Dug Pond, a small basin separated from Foster's Pond by a berm. When the water level rises, water from the two ponds merges, which could allow weeds in one pond to spread to the other.

The cost for the treatment is $5,750, and after raising funds for the procedure, and gaining the Conservation Commission's clearance for the project in March, the corporation hired Aquatic Control Technology to carry out the job.

"Now's the time," Cotton, president of the Foster's Pond Corp., said. "The herbicide needs to be applied."

Were the weed allowed to spread, it would choke the pond. That means the weed has the potential to ruin the habitat for wildlife, said Cotton. "The fanwort's massiveness of growth can starve a pond, interfere with swimming, boating and fishing," he said.

The herbicide is chemical, as there is no other way to combat fanwort. Cotton said it is the least toxic of the six herbicides that can be used to kill the threatening weed.

Samples will be taken from the pond every couple of weeks to assess the need for "booster treatments." The group may need to spray again if heavy rains cause Dug Pond to rise,and spill into the main pond. The corporation's Web site reports that as of May 29, the water in Dug Pond was lapping at the top of the berm between Dug and Foster's ponds.

"It was to everybody's advantage to control the fanwort [in Dug Pond]," said Bob Douglas, conservation director, "so it wouldn't serve as a source for the fanwort to migrate back into Foster's Pond, which was previously treated."

BRIEFS

Wyeth to add suites, 150 new biotech jobs in town

Wyeth Pharmaceuticals, a division of Wyeth, has announced that it is adding 150 new positions to support the manufacturing operations of an additional biotech manufacturing suite at its biotech campus in Andover. The expansion will be formally announced at an event tomorrow, Friday.

The new hires will be made primarily in the areas of manufacturing and quality and engineering. This is in addition to the 50 new positions added in 2005 to support increased drug development activities on the campus.

With the addition of these positions, Wyeth will employ approximately 2,800 people in Massachusetts between its research campus in Cambridge and its Andover facility.

Raytheon lights

Selectmen agreed Monday, June 5, to wait until Monday, June 19 to vote on whether to approve the Raytheon Company's traffic-signal design and traffic-signal agreements.

While Technical Engineering Corp.'s Senior Engineer Kevin R. Dandrade, Raytheon's Bill Cummings, and Andover Public Works Director Jack Petkus were on hand for the discussion on Monday, town counsel Tom Urbelis was not, and the board decided to delay their decision until he could be present.

Similarly, by the June 19 date, Dandrade said he should have a Massachusetts Highway Department permit in hand, which he said he expects to obtain within two weeks.

Dewhirst recognized as CFSP

Richard C. Dewhirst, CFSP of Methuen, has recently qualified for recertification of the designation of certified funeral service practitioner, by the Academy of Professional Funeral Service Practice.

A number of professions grant special recognition to members upon completion of specified academic and professional programs and CFSP is funeral service's national individual recognition.

To initially receive this reward, the practitioner must complete a 180-hour program of continuing education activities and events. In addition, the practitioner is required to accumulate 20 hours per year to recertify. Credits are awarded by the academy for work leading to personal and/or professional growth in four areas: academic activities, professional activities, career review and community and civic activities.

The Charles F. Dewhirst Family Funeral Homes have locations in Andover, Lawrence and Methuen.

Top producer

Jim Kochakian, a vice president for Interate Mortgage Corp. in Methuen earned the company's "Top Producer Award" for 2005. The award is given annually to the loan officer with the highest loan production. Kochakian has 18 years experience in the mortgage industry and has been with Interate for the last 16 years. Kochakian has closed more than $900 million worth of mortgage loans during his career.

Friendly's building to be torn down

Butler Bank plans bank branch, plus room for office or retail space

By Brian Davidson

Butler Bank officials hope to tear down the former Friendly's Ice Cream building on Main Street to make room for a bigger two-story building that will be more than just a bank, according to a Butler representative.

"The idea is that the bank will only use a portion of the first floor as a branch," said Butler's attorney Mark Johnson.

Johnson said the remainder of the first floor and the entire second floor of the new building will be rented out as retail or office space, pending approval by the Planning Board later this month.

The Lowell-based bank bought the downtown property for $1.45 million in early March. While some in Andover frowned at the thought of another downtown bank when they heard that Butler would be moving in, town officials said Butler's plans for the Main Street lot should appease some people.

"I think it's good because so many people were disappointed to see Friendly's leave," said Senior Planner Lisa LaGrasse Schwarz. "At least this way, it will be part bank and part retail. It will be more of a transition."

Johnson indicated that Butler officials have not determined whether the vacant space would be used as office space, retail space or a combination of both. They plan to fill the vacancy with the best possible tenants and use the space accordingly.

"They are looking for somebody that's compatible with a first class building," he said. "And they're looking for tenants that will enhance downtown Andover."

FILE PHOTO BY TIM JEAN

Butler Bank hopes to tear down the former Friendly's building and replace it with a new building that can be used both by the bank and by another business.

Butler representatives have taken every proper step in the design process so far, said Ann Constantine, chairwoman of the town's Design Advisory Group.

"They've worked very closely with the Design Advisory Group and the Preservation Commission to produce a design that's compatible with our downtown," she said.

Butler officials hope to build a two-story brick building closer to the street than the Friendly's building currently sits, with a main entrance that faces the police station. The design, which includes added landscaping such as planted islands in the parking lot and new lampposts, is respectful of the historic look of the downtown area, said Constantine.

"It is our hope that the town likes our design," said Johnson. "I know (Butler officials) are very anxious to break ground and start construction, so the hope is that will happen sometime this summer."

The design will go before the Planning Board next Tuesday, June 13, at 7:30 p.m. in Town Offices, 36 Bartlet St.

St. Augustine Brownie Troop cooks up badge, ziti dinner at Dylan's

St. Augustine Brownie Troop 578 received their cooking badge at Dylan's Restaurant on Park Street in Andover recently. The girls made baked ziti with garlic bread, garden salad and berry apple crisp with Chef Andy Marresse in the upstairs dining room. "This is so much fun! I love to cook,", said troop member Sarah Tucker. The girls enjoyed their culinary creations at a private dining area. Dylan's owner Sam Petrovich hosted the event.

OBITUARIES

Shirley R. Nixon

Longtime resident was a real estate agent here

Shirley R. Nixon, 83, of Salem, N.H. and a former longtime resident of Andover, died Saturday, June 3, after a long illness.

Born and raised in Garner, Iowa, Mrs. Nixon was the widow of Edwin G. Otto and Thomas W. Nixon.

Shirley R. Nixon

Prior to her retirement, she was the director of purchasing for Ginsburg Bros. in Somerville. During her professional career, she also worked for Sugerman Bros., was a real estate agent in Andover and an executive secretary.

After her retirement, she was active in volunteer activities such as Meals on Wheels, taking seniors to appointments and helping at Memorial Hall Library and the Christ Church Thrift Shop.

In her younger years, she held a pilot's license. She was active in the DAR. Family members said her many interests included sailing, golfing, playing cards with her friends, the Red Sox, exploring the coast of Maine, traveling, and spending time with her family.

Members of her family include her daughters, Sue Otto of Los Angeles, Calif. and Robin J. Lynch and her husband Garett Lynch of Salem, N.H.; several grandchildren; a brother-in-law, Herbert Rauh of Maine; and several nieces and nephews.

She was predeceased by her son, Alan T. Nixon; sisters, Lorraine Rauh and Ruth Hagen; and a granddaughter.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Make-A-Wish Foundation of New Hampshire or the Greater Salem Caregivers.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, June 10 at 11 a.m. at Christ Church in Andover.

Arrangements are by the Dewhirst & Conte Funeral Home, 28 Florence St., Andover.

OBITUARIES

The Townsman will publish obituaries of Andover residents without charge.

The paper also will publish without charge a short announcement of those people who died and did not live here, but are related to someone who lives in Andover. This listing will include the name of the deceased, where he or she lived, when he or she died, and names of relatives in Andover.

Those who wish to have a complete obituary published about a person who did not live in Andover can pay for a death notice. The cost of a death notice depends on the length of the notice.

Questions? Call Jack Grady or Neil Fater at 978-475-7000.

Angelina Giuffrida

Native of Italy had 10 great-grandchildren

Angelina (Carabello) Giuffrida, 97, of Andover, died Wednesday, May 31, at Wingate at Andover in Andover.

She was born on Feb. 20, 1909, in Italy to Giuseppi and Santina (Pucci) Carabello.

Mrs. Giurrida was in the first class to graduate from Holy Rosary Grammar School.

She attended Holy Rosary Church and was a St. Rita's Sodality member.

She worked for Grieco Brothers as a stitcher for many years.

Mrs. Giuffrida was the widow of Joseph Giuffrida.

Members of her family include a daughter, Josephine and her husband Bart Forseze of Clemmons, N.C.; sons, Anthony Giuffrida and his wife Ida of North Andover, and Joseph and his wife Dora Giuffrida of Methuen; brother, Joseph Carbello; sisters, Jean Corrao, Pauline Risi and Mary Kova; 12 grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Arrangements were by Cataudella Funeral Home, 126 Pleasant Valley St., Methuen.

Dorothy M. Andruss

Worked in Essex Street retail stores

Dorothy Mary "Babe" (Calman) Andruss, 80, of North Andover, died Wednesday, May 31, at Academy Manor in Andover.

Born, raised and educated in North Andover, she graduated from Johnson High School, in the class of 1944.

She worked at the Print Works and several of the more well-known retail stores on Essex Street in Lawrence.

She did volunteering, both at the North Andover Thrift Shop and the Food Pantry at the North Parish Church.

She enjoyed knitting, gardening, the beach and her home. Her greatest pleasures were at those times when she was with her family. She was a member of St. Michael's Church.

Members of her family include her husband, Edward L. Andruss, with whom she would have celebrated 57 years of marriage in July; two sons, Edward C. Andruss of North Andover, and John P. and his wife Lisa Andruss of Mechanicsville, Va.; two daughters and their husbands, Susan and Henry Armitage of North Andover, and Nancy and John Erle of Walnut Creek, Calif.; and five grandchildren.

Arrangements were by the Dewhirst & Conte Funeral home, 17 Third St., North Andover.

William D. Martin II

Raised, educated here

William D. Martin II, 48, of Lawrence and Hampstead, N.H., died unexpectedly on Saturday, May 27at his cottage on Chazy Lake in New York.

Mr. Martin was born in Hartford, Conn., was raised and educated in Andover, and graduated from the University of Lowell.

He most recently was employed as the CFO of Merrimack Valley Wood Products in Derry, N.H.

He was a member of the John Hancock Lodge in Methuen.

An avid reader, he also greatly enjoyed hunting and fishing at his cottage on Chazy Lake, family members said. He was devoted to his family and friends.

He was predeceased by his father, William D. Martin Sr.

Deborah Trull Brown

Longtime member of South Church

Deborah Trull Brown, 99, of Newbury, N.H. and a former longtime resident of Andover, died Saturday, June 3.

She was born in Woburn on May 13, 1907, the daughter of Eliott and Sybil (Shaw) Trull.

A 43-year resident of Andover, she moved to Newbury in 1987 and to Pine Rock Manor, in Warner, N.H. in 2003.

She was a graduate of Rogers Hall Academy in Lowell and attended Katherine Gibbs School and Simmons College.

Mrs. Brown was a longtime member of South Church in Andover, where she belonged to the APC and the Two and One. She was also a member of the November Club.

She was a member of the former Priscilla Abbot Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In preserving her family history, she traced her ancestors back to the first settlers of Woburn in 1642.

She was an avid reader and enjoyed cooking and serving on committees.

She was the widow of Will G. Brown Jr., who died in 1971. They were married for 38 years.

Members of her family include two sons, David T. Brown of Newbury, and Alan T. Brown of Bradford, N.H.; and three grandchildren.

There were no calling hours. Services will be held at the convenience of the family.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First Baptist Church, PO Box 57, Bradford, NH 03221.

Arrangements are by Chadwick Funeral Service of New London, N.H.

Miss Annie Ramsay of 117 North Main St. was pleasantly surprised with a beautiful umbrella from the co-workers of the Shawsheen Laundry where she has worked for a number of years before she sailed Sunday on the Transylvania for her old home town, Carnoustic Angus, Scotland, where she is to spend the next three months.

An interesting and profitable session of the Andover Church Vacation School during July should be the result of the plans now being made. The staff will consist of the following members: Director, Mrs. Lorenz Hansen; Beginners, Mrs. Grace Innes; Primary, Miss Ruth Perry; Juniors, Miss Edith Keirstead; Intermediate, Miss Polly Francis; Superintendent of Craft Work, Miss Barbara Lord.

The school will be held, as in the past two years, in the John Dove School, and the session will run through four weeks, from July 6 to 31.

The pouring rain of Tuesday evening didn't prevent a fair-sized audience from attending the presentation of Lady Lilac, a three-act mystery play staged by the Free Church Players, in the Parish House. A mysterious murder of the proprietor of the Lilac Lake inn is followed by the disappearance of the bus chauffeur. A female Sherlock Holmes takes the situation in hand and unravels not only the problem of the murder but also that of a smuggler's ring; the guilty party being no other than the innkeeper's brother. The play was coached by Mrs. E. Taber McFarlin, Randolph H. Perry and J. Henry Otis.

Caribbean Dreams

Riverside Rhapsody fundraiser is Family Service's biggest event

Lisa McDonald and Mary Beth Finn, co-chairwomen of Riverside Rhapsody, Family Service's largest fundraiser, announced that the theme this year will be Caribbean.

The gala celebration tomorrow, June 9 beginning at 6:30 p.m. will include dinner, dancing to the Caribbean sounds of Grupo Fantasia, and silent and live auctions with a guest auctioneer Dave Fazio.

Auction items include tickets to Madonna's 2006 world tour, a ride in a hot-air balloon, a ladies Accutron diamond watch, a weekend at Wentworth by the Sea, or a day in a luxury car such as a Lotus.

More information and tickets may be obtained from Family Service, 430 North Canal St., Lawrence, by calling Mary Lyman at 978-683-9505, Ext. 48; or from Family Service's Web site, www.FamilyService.com.

Town manager, planning chairman laud I-93 effort

I-93 INTERCHANGE

win, win situation."

"We solve the traffic problem, get a lot of tax revenue, and create a lot of jobs," he said. "If we get an interchange in here, that's really going to be a plus for us."

A study by the Merrimack Economic Development Council concluded that building an interchange would provide 3,352 temporary construction jobs, and another 11,575 jobs would be created to develop currently inaccessible land that the interchange would make available. It would also give local communities $6.76 million in local tax revenues, according to the study, and could generate up to $32 million in sales tax for the state.

Salafia is hopeful that when state officials review the study, they will agree that the I-93 interchange is justified.

"All the state is saying is 'OK, you want one there, is it justified and why?'" he said. "Is it justified? Those numbers just knock you down. If you look at the studies – wow, is it justified."

But there is some disagreement regarding the three interchange design options submitted as part of the interchange justification report. Because a mall would be built in Tewksbury, some Andover residents fear the traffic effects of one option, known as the loop option.

Resident Peter Cotch, in a letter to the Townsman this week, called the option "fatally flawed," saying it would be "the most expensive to build, most expensive to maintain, have the greatest environmental impact, place the greatest burden on public infrastructure, and result in the greatest diminution to Andover's quality of life." Cotch said he believes the option is backed primarily by Tewksbury residents, real estate speculators, and the contracting company that will be hired to build the new mall.

"Some may like one option, others may like another," said Salafia. "At this point it's almost irrelevant because all we are saying is that an interchange is justified."

Salafia added it is "highly unlikely" that any of the submitted designs would be done exactly as they are drafted now, as a final design will not be possible until years of environmental and engineering studies are conducted.

"Right now we're just worrying about the lowest common denominator," he said. "Is this justified? I think we all agree that it is."

Final report summary by the Lowell Junction Interchange Task Force

The benefits to Andover from the construction of a new interchange on I-93 in Lowell Junction are tremendous. For the last 30 years the residents and businesses in Andover have discussed the need for a new access to the Lowell Junction area to help boost the economic tax base and relieve the pressure on local roads in neighborhoods surrounding Lowell Junction. Never before has the effort to propose a new interchange garnered the kind of support that this revitalized effort has received over the last several years. However, Andover must be cautious about accepting a new interchange at any price. The Lowell Junction Interchange Task Force (LJITF) has raised some serious concerns about the impacts which could result from an interchange which does not evenly distribute the benefits and impacts amongst all the affected communities. The following points represent the goal and objectives which the LJITF felt should be realized by the development of a new interchange in Lowell Junction.

· Provide immediate and direct access from Route 93 to existing businesses in the Lowell Junction Area.

· Improve traffic conditions in existing residential neighborhoods and collector roads adjacent to the Lowell Junction Area.

· Maximize the economic development potential for the Lowell Junction Area, while insuring that the preferred alternative protects the environment and enhances the overall quality-of-life for all residents.

· Avoid deterioration of level of service benefits obtained or expected from recently improved intersections and roadway projects.

· Avoid adverse impact to Andover's vibrant Downtown Commercial Area.

· Avoid excessive construction cost and/or long-term maintenance cost for the Town of Andover.

The initial review we have completed with the drafting of this report is just the beginning of a long design, engineering and review process in the development of a new interchange. The Town of Andover must be ready to provide educated and thoughtful input into this continued evaluation. In that regard the LJITF recommends the Town of Andover initiate the process for a new Comprehensive Master Plan. The last Comprehensive Master Plan prepared by the Town was completed in 1992. Much has changed since that time, including the continued growth of the Lowell Junction area, the Town's purchase of the Reichhold Chemical property, the renovation of the High School and the construction of a new Public Safety Center for both Fire and Police. As the Town of Andover weighs in on the important implications of a new interchange in Lowell Junction we should do so with the benefit and understanding of how the Town intends to grow as a whole.

The other fact which became obvious to the LJITF is that the review of these matters requires the benefit of the professional experience of an independent Traffic Engineer. Although the individual members of the LJITF have a broad range of experience in dealing with many similar issues, we felt we were being re-active when maybe we could have been more pro-active in serving Andover's interest. The Town of Andover should hire an independent Traffic Engineering firm to represent the Town's interests as the design of the new interchange moves forward. That is not to say that this LJITF should be dissolved, but rather this Task Force should have the benefit of the experience of a professional engineering firm to help us suggest design modifications which will provide increased benefit and mitigation to the Town of Andover.

In closing, the LJITF finds it is important that the Town of Andover secure a new interchange on I-93 in the Lowell Junction region. However, as important as the new interchange may be, Andover needs the right interchange. The wrong interchange and associated roadway design could facilitate unintended sprawl of retail/commercial growth in neighboring communities, and Andover's local roads may well become the only outlet for the traffic impacts associated with that expanded growth.

COLLECTING 1,000 BOOKS FOR SICK KIDS

West Elementary School girls spearhead effort for Children's Hospital

By Lucy Properzio
What's Up contributor

Zoe Gates,10, and Jessica Ferronetti,10, fourth-graders at West Elementary School, have completed two book drives to benefit Reach Out and Read, a program established to help promote literacy skills within primary care settings at Children's Hospital Boston.

"The first donation of 300 books was made over April vacation," said Sue Ferronetti, Jessica's mother.

"Zoe and Jessica are both avid readers and love to take part in and seek out charitable events," said Joan Gates, Zoe's mother. The girls found out about ROR from a visit to Children's Hospital.

"They have books on the forefront of their minds. There is a need for books at the hospital and this is a way for them to provide comfort to the kids," said Gates.

When the girls brought the first donation to the hospital in April, they were greeted by Taylor Silver, ROR coordinator and Advocating Success for Kids administrative assistant.

"We get a lot of kids that decide to do book drives. Generally we get high school students and usually it is the teachers who generate the idea. It is my understanding that in this case it was solely the idea of the girls. They put up flyers and got the word out. Pretty amazing," said Silver.

While at the hospital, the girls learned that the patients bring the books home with them when they are discharged, so the hospital always needs new books. The girls decided to expand the project.

They held a second book drive – this time a schoolwide drive.

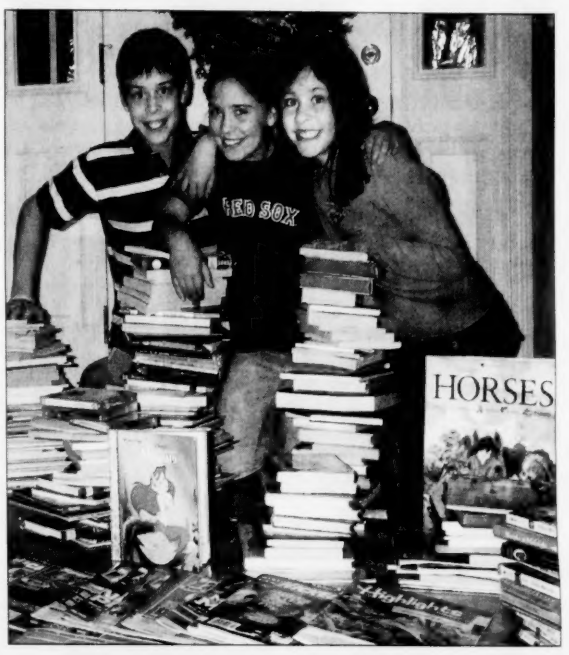

"One day at recess, Zoe and Jessica gathered the fourth-graders and split them up into two groups. They tried to inform them about the event and pump them up for the drive," said Ferronetti. "We are estimating a total donation of almost 1,000 books."

"I just loaded about 700 books into my car and there are more to come," said Gates.

"Teachers at West Elementary have been extremely helpful," said Ferronetti.

Jessica's twin sisters, who are in first grade, also got involved by donating 100 of their own books.

Zoe and Jessica have talked about trying to get a program started in each of the elementary schools next year. "I would love to see contacts at each of the elementary schools to get more people involved," said Gates. "I think that their success so far will give them the confidence to broaden their efforts."

Police target forest

Many allegedly engaged in lewd conduct

By Brian Davidson

Harold Parker Forest, a public state park shared by Andover and North Andover, has long been a place for fishing, hiking, and recreational use. Recently, however, it has been a venue for "lewd, wanton and lascivious conduct," as 23 men have been arrested on that charge or one related in the past three weeks by Andover police.

"It is not unusual for us to see this kind of activity from time to time," said Lt. James Hashem. "But there seems to be a lot more of it this year than there has been in past years."

Hashem said the police department is working aggressively to curtail the sexually explicit behavior, after receiving a large number of complaints from people using the park recreationally. Police have responded by stepping up patrols and regularly placing plain-clothed officers in the area. Two such officers have been groped in the past three weeks.

"That's part of the behavior that we're trying to prevent," said Hashem. "The people that are being arrested are exposing themselves to people and groping non-consenting adults. Their behavior really runs the gamut."

According to Hashem, for every person arrested at the park, another two or three have to be spoken to or warned. Most of them, he said, either live or work in the area.

"Eventually the message will get out that this type of behavior is not going to be tolerated," said Hashem. "It's a public park. We want people to feel comfortable and know that they're safe out there when they use it. We will certainly continue to patrol it."

BIG APPLE

Literary book for teens now whopping 88 pages

The "launch night" for the spring issue of AppleSauce, a literary publication highlighting the works of middle school students in Greater Lawrence, was held Tuesday night in Andover.

This was the first time an Andover public school held a launch night.

This spring's edition is the longest issue of AppleSauce ever published, at 88 pages, and it includes musical compositions.

Among the numerous standout articles in this month's edition of AppleSauce magazine, is the exemplary work of current Wood Hill Middle School student Maggie Mullins.

While studying The Miracle Worker in language arts class, Maggie was asked to write a poem about a person who was dealing with affliction. Her original poem titled "Affection" is the product of this assignment.

Maggie said of her poem: "My poem is about seeing someone who is dealing with affliction in every day life. Say you were walking down the street, and you saw a person dealing with affliction; how would you act?"

Maggie says that she hadn't written much poetry before this assignment, but that she enjoyed the project, and likes the way her poem turned out. She said she hopes to continue writing in the future, but that she'd like to do it on her own terms.

"Writing for homework isn't that fun, but you have to do it," she said.

NESWC REFUND

$3.6M coming

No plan for trash cash yet as officials consider options

By Alison McGonagle

Ask 10 Andover leaders how the town should spend its $3.6 million refund from the North East Solid Waste Committee and you may get 10 answers.

But as the end of this fiscal year approaches, officials are once again discussing plans for money.

The $3.6 million refund was a one-time payment to cities and towns involved in NESWC. The communities teamed up in the 1980s to build the Wheelabrator trash incinerator in North Andover. For years, the communities involved paid higher trash costs than others, but now that the facility is fully paid for, a refund was issued in late December.

Officials seem to agree that the money should not be spent to add something to the operating budget because the refund is a one-time deal, and the added item would have to be cut the following year.

However, there is debate about whether the town should:

- spend it on one large capital project;
- put the money in a trust fund, where the interest can be utilized year after year; or
- save the money entirely, to be used only in emergencies.

"We definitely have to put a process together to weigh our options," said Selectmen Chairman Alex Vispoli. "It is one-time money, and should not be used for the operating budget. This is Andover taxpayer money. We should find a high value investment that will help us build back our reserves." Vispoli said spending the interest is a slippery slope, and that he does not favor putting these funds toward the operating budget.

School Committee Chairwoman Deb Silberstein believes a task force of officials and community members should examine possible uses for the refund.

"I do think that we should do something with the money other than leaving it in a stabilization fund. I think we need to get input from the community about what they want to do with it. We need to look at what investments we can make that will position Andover well for the future. We should assess our infrastructure, look at building needs."

Arthur Barber, School Committee member, said he does not want to see the money diced up between departments. "I'd like to see it spent on schools, or allocated to the senior or youth center projects. Other departments also have their needs. Each department will have its own idea. The challenge is that it is one-time money – unless you then think about spending interest only."

David Samuels, School Committee member, said regardless of how or where the money is spent, the balance should be maintained, and only interest spent.

"I think we should only touch it for operating funds," said Samuels. "The principal balance should not be touched. We could use the interest for the school budget, which we are desperately trying to rebuild."

Samuels said if the state budget falls short of covering town education needs, the gap would be about the same as a year's interest on the refund. If the state budget does come through, the money could be used to rebuild or maintain services.

"Regardless of which department, I would like to see this money become part of the operating budget," said Samuels.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said he's changed his approach to the funds' use since his original stance, which

Water gone, but not problems

FLOODS AND FIRES destroy homes in different ways. After a fire, people can see that a building is still damaged and that the owners might need a hand. Insurance can help people replace fire-damaged property. After flood waters subside, everything can appear normal from the outside, even if people cannot return to their homes for months. As many of those who lived or had storage units below ground are learning, flood insurance might not pay to replace their lost furniture, household items and other property. Even though common sense says floods will most affect areas below street level, a required National National Flood Insurance Policy does not pay to replace personal items, furniture and furnishings lost in below-grade rooms.

It has been nearly four weeks since the historic May flooding drove scores of Andover residents from their homes. While things may look OK based on the brick exterior of buildings such as Balmoral Condominium, many Andover residents remain out of their homes with little idea of how soon they might be able to return. The chairman of Balmoral's board of trustees estimates the damage at $2 million, not including personal items. He has set up a fund at the Savings Bank in Andover to help.

Andover residents always have been known to lend a hand, both to town and international neighbors. It's important for us to remember that our fellow Andover residents in Shawsheen are still trying to recover from the floods and might need assistance – even though the calendar now reads June.

Web question

Should flood policies cover more?

Last week's Andover Townsman Web-site question was: Do you think putting bumpouts at the Chestnut Street intersections is a good idea? 47 people responded.

- 1 person, or 2 percent, said, "Yes. It has been proven on School Street that they slow down traffic."
- 6 people, or 13 percent, said, "Yes. It is a major street to downtown and needs some traffic calming measures like bumpouts."
- No one said, "Yes, for another reason."
- 23 people or 49 percent, said, "No, let's stick to reparing existing sidewalks."
- 14 people or 30 percent, said, "No, the stop signs already in place work just fine."
- 3 people, or 6 percent, said, "No, for another reason."

This week's Andover Townsman Web-site question is: Flood victims are finding out that their required flood insurance doesn't cover basement damage. Do you think the National Flood Insurance Policy should cover flood damage that occurs below street level?

- Yes, because it's common sense that any flood damage would first occur in basements.
- Yes, the purpose of flood insurance is to cover any damage, regardless of where it occurs.
- Yes, for another reason.
- No, people should expect and prevent flood damage below street level, especially in flood-prone areas.
- No, for another reason.

Residents, be heard on I-93 interchange plan

Editor, Townsman:

Over the last several months I have served as the chairman of the Lowell Junction Interchange Task Force (LJITF), a five-member board appointed by the Andover Board of Selectmen to help evaluate the potential benefits and impacts to the town of Andover from the proposed new interchange on I-93 in Lowell Junction. The LJITF spent many hours reviewing information provided by the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission (MVPC) in support of the proposed interchange alternative design options. We hosted two public information sessions to present information and listened to concerns from Andover residents, businesses and property owners. The members of the LJITF and others took time out of their busy schedules to attend the meetings. The presentations by MVPC were informative and the questions which followed in both sessions were educated and respectful.

The construction of a new interchange on I-93 in Lowell Junction will be the largest public roadway construction project Andover has ever seen. The impacts of this project go beyond traffic projections, and have the ability to affect the overall quality of life in Andover for many generations. This project is multi-faceted and Andover will have to live with the impacts if it wants to secure the benefits. A web link to the task force's report is http://andoverma.gov/publish/ljireport.pdf, and readers can download the entire report. Andover has taken the first step in what will be a very long process. I encourage residents to read the report, develop their own opinions and let selectmen and legislators know where they stand.

Planning chairman urges support for new ramps

Editor, Townsman:

Recently the Planning Board, Board of Selectmen and the Lowell Junction Interchange Task Force all voted to endorse the concept of a new interchange off Interstate 93 between exits 41 and 42 by moving several designs forward for further consideration. In this early stage of planning the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission has been asked to issue a "justification report" to Mass Highway and Federal Highway and invited the towns of Andover, Tewksbury and Wilmington to participate. This report is simply to "justify" whether an interchange is needed. I applaud the work of the Planning Board, the Lowell Junction Interchange Task Force and the selectmen for recognizing how vital this interchange is to the future of Andover.

The interchange is clearly justifiable for several reasons.

First, there's traffic relief for the residents of Ballardvale. This is a long-standing problem that has plagued the residents in and around Ballardvale for decades. In all cases a new interchange in any of the studied configurations provided significant traffic reductions in the residential neighborhoods in and around Ballardvale. Not to build an interchange would result in increasing congestion and more traffic.

Second, there's jobs. A new interchange would provide access to commercially zoned land that was previously inaccessible. This would provide thousands of new jobs right here in Andover while diverting the traffic impacts directly onto Interstate 93. The result is economic growth with minimal impact. Not to build an interchange would result in the loss of thousands of potential jobs and possibly force existing companies to seek other growth alternatives resulting in reduced tax revenues for Andover.

Third, there's tax relief. Hundreds of acres of land that was previously undevelopable would be able to be developed and millions of dollars in real estate taxes would be realized. All who attended Town Meeting this year will attest to the budget constraints to which Andover is facing. This would provide enormous tax benefits and again, minimal impacts on our residents. Not to build an interchange would possibly force existing companies to seek other growth alternatives resulting in reduced tax revenues for Andover.

This week the MVPC will be posting its final Interchange Justification Report on its Web site (www.mvpc.org) for public comment. I would urge all the citizens of Andover to write them in support. This $59 million state and federal construction project will likely be the largest and most economically beneficial project in Andover's history while solving long standing problems of traffic and congestion in our neighborhoods. It's simply good planning.

Andover MVPC Commissioner

Traffic studies needed

Editor, Townsman:

Kudos go to the Andover selectmen for adopting the findings of the Lowell Junction Interchange Task Force. It is particularly impressive that they attached the entire Task Force report to the report going to the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission. Andover streets were in trouble but now have a fighting chance. More work has to be done with traffic studies and this issue if far from over but at least the issue is being addressed.

Special attention goes to Alex Vispoli who played an important role in the whole effort. While considering the important possible growth of Andover's tax base through expansion of industrial land, he also took careful steps to ensure that this growth would not have a deleterious impact on the town itself. This is a difficult balancing act. Great first step.

Neighbor: Abutters treated unfairly, not cabana owner

Editor, Townsman:

I am writing in regard to the meeting of the Zoning Board on Thursday, June 1 in regard to the cabana on Hazelwood Circle. Although I was not able to attend the meeting, my husband did, as we are abutters to the property. There were many friends and neighbors of the Gibsons, the cabana owners, speaking about what wonderful people, neighbors and taxpayers the Gibsons are. We are all wonderful people. There is only one problem. None of the people speaking on behalf of the Gibsons have houses that abut their property. Not one. None of these people have had damage done to their property by water in the basement and flooding of their yards (I'm talking before the torrential rains). Most abutters have lived there for over 10 years and have never experienced any water problem prior to the cabana construction project. None of these people eat their Sunday dinner while looking out at a view that is now the back of an oversized cabana/house as the Hauer family does.

This isn't a popularity contest. It is about what is right and what is wrong. The Gibsons did not ask their neighbors of more than 10 years if they would mind this view obstruction. Maybe they did not because they knew what their answer would be: the same answer it would be for any of the people speaking on the behalf of the Gibsons, or for any homeowner.

The bylaws were written to protect homeowners and treat them all equally. We are all supposed to be protected under the same bylaws. The abutters should have been given the chance to voice their concerns before the cabana was built. That is the law. The Gibsons should have read the bylaws the same as any other taxpayer building in Andover. How many people would not have questioned a verbal OK on a project of that magnitude? Especially knowing the huge amount of money they were investing in the project. Especially being a lawyer, as Mr. Gibson is.

Because they were not properly notified, the abutters have had to hire at great expense to themselves, lawyers, architects and conservation experts. In the case of the Hauers, they have seen their property value decrease. Who is going to buy a home where the view from the living room is the back of a two-story cabana? Not me.

Neighbors and friends say the Gibsons are being unfairly treated. It is the abutters who were unfairly treated, by loss of their right to speak before the cabana was built, by the monetary expense they have all incurred, as well as the horrible waste of everyone's time and energy so that the Gibsons can enjoy a two-story changing house for their pool.

Even if the Zoning Board votes in favor of the keeping the cabana, this saga is still going to continue. If the Zoning Board doesn't abide by the town bylaws, many or all of the abutters, I'm sure, will seek civil action.

Our 10-year-old daughter has a saying posted in her classroom that is quite apropos to this situation. It reads, "What's right isn't always popular and what's popular isn't always right."

was that the refund be put into a trust fund used for trash

"I would like to see the money used as permanent reserves," said Stapczynski. "Our reserve levels are low. The refund should be used for stabilization funds. I don't think it should be spent – not even the interest."

Selectman Mary Lyman said at this point, there needs to be more thought before a decision is made.

"A first rule should be that it would be a one-time expense," said Lyman of how the refund be spent, "not something renewable, because it is one-time money."

Selectman John Hess said he wants to come up with a plan that neither banks the entire sum, nor spends it all. He does want to see the money spent on a project, like a youth center, though he said it's too early to commit to anything. What he is sure of is that the money should not become part of the operating budget.

"Andover has a lot of capital needs. No matter where we put the money, we should keep a reserve," Hess said.

School Committee member Dick Collins said he's biased, as a member of the committee. He wants to see the money put toward restoration of some programs in the schools, such as elementary-school physical education and rebuilding the high school's teaching staff.

"I don't want to see it put aside," Collins said. "I want to see the whole balance spent. Putting it aside for a rainy day doesn't make sense. It's been raining for a while."

The refund is currently in the free cash fund, but needs to be certified before it can be used. When the current fiscal year ends on July 1, the town's budget will be reviewed by the state, at which point the NESWC refund will be available for use.

"I think until we have a plan, clearly the money should be in free cash or a stabilization fund," said Silberstein. "We have already anticipated using interest in operating budgets. We need to recognize that if we do use the funds, it will reduce the interest that we have projected to use for operations."

School Committee member Tony James said he believes the intent is to use the money to fund a stabilization fund, and use interest for the operating budget.

"I haven't reached conclusion about it," James said. "We have until next Town Meeting to figure it out. That approach has merit. We're waiting to see what the town's finances look like for fiscal year '08 before we reach a final conclusion."

"Monday itself was slow," said Prussman of Memorial Day, "but other than that all the days were normal, and [the previous] Thursday was very busy."

According to Prussman, the station sold 12,201 gallons over Memorial Day weekend (May 26 to 30) in 2005. This year the same station sold 12,862 gallons during that weekend, from May 25 to 29.

On Memorial Day weekend 2005, gas prices in Massachusetts averaged $2.12, and nationally averaged $2.10, while in 2006 the state average was $2.97, and the national average was $2.86, according to AAA Merrimack Valley.

Addison Travel reports a similar phenomenon in its business. While fuel costs and therefore the prices of airline trips have risen, there are more people traveling, according to Addison Travel owner Tom Keefe.

"The number of travelers [on air crafts] is up again to where it was in 2000, before the decrease attributed to terrorist attacks on Sept. 11, 2001," Keefe said.

"I was a little surprised," said Eleanor Baker, director of marketing at AAA Merrimack Valley. "I thought we'd hear a little more grumbling. The month before was so much rain and bad weather, I think that people needed a break."

TALE OF THE PUMP

The Getty gas station on Route 125 in Andover sold hundreds of more gallons of gas this Memorial Day weekend than last year, despite an increase statewide of more than 80-cents-per-gallon in gas prices.

Graduation 2006

Mortarboards fly as the Andover High School class of 2006 celebrates the end of its high school years, at a graduation ceremony on Monday in Lowell's Tsongas Arena.

It came as no surprise that every speaker who stood before the podium at Andover High's commencement ceremony mentioned him. During the class of 2006's proudest moment, the graduating seniors together honored the late Peter Arthur, an AHS social studies teacher who helped many of those receiving diplomas Monday get to where they were.

Coming off a week of senior activities and graduation parties, the 463 departing seniors filed into Tsongas Arena in Lowell to the applause of their family, friends and teachers, wearing blue caps and gowns with orange ribbons – orange was Arthur's favorite color – pinned over their hearts.

"My lasting memory of you is going to be how you shared this commencement ceremony today with the memory of Peter Arthur and the wearing of the orange ribbons," Principal Peter Anderson told the class. "It's quite a special way to mark a life."

But those attending the graduation did not dwell on the sadness of Arthur's passing. The day was instead reserved for the graduates to celebrate their own lives, without forgetting the impacts that Arthur and Jeffrey Valley, a teacher who died during their junior year, have had on them.

The class gift, presented in remembrance of both of these teachers, included a globe in every classroom with the inscription "He taught us the world. In loving memory of Mr. Peter Arthur," and a donation to a scholarship fund set up for Valley's daughter.

"I have no doubt that the globes will be welcome additions

SENIOR SAFARI

Seniors bowled over by fun of graduation-night party

Hanging on inside a bowling-ball cage, Danielle Perry rolls toward some oversized bowling pins during Senior Safari, meant to provide an all-night, drug-free environment for graduates on graduation night.

By Lucy Properzio

A few new twists – such as human bowling – left Andover High School graduates' heads spinning Monday night as they enjoyed Senior Safari 2006.

Started in 1993, the event has become known as the drug-free, all-night party where newly graduated AHS seniors can commemorate their achievements and friendships.

"This is amazing. I have been here hundreds of times and I have never seen the field house look like this," said Marissa Johnson, who will attend Mount Holyoke College.

The AHS field house was almost unrecognizable, as it was transformed into a jungle-like place with many activities for graduates. Seniors began entering around 10 p.m. wearing T-shirts designed for the night. There are 463 graduates this year, nearly 100 more than the class of 2005.

"When I came in and saw all of the lights, I knew I would have a good time," said Tarek Zatet, who will attend Syracuse University. Zebra rugs, jungle vines, faux torches, and oversized stuffed animals dominated the scene.

"Senior Safari is so sick," said John Rocca who also answers to "J-Beats." Rocca stood in front of a bridge that read "Blue Lagoon. Toll – 1 Diploma," one of the many jungle-related statements around the room. He will attend Northern Essex Community College.

Recent graduates were not the only ones enjoying the jungle.

"It just seems to get better and better every year and I have been volunteering for about five years now," said Susan Buckley.

"I am 'a bouncer' for the night," she said. Buckley guarded the back doors of the field house on Monday, but in past years has worked the massage table and other stations. "I love volunteering. This is a safe way for kids to have fun," she said.

Linda Gostanian, another committed volunteer and mother of three boys, completed her seventh year with the safari. "I have been here setting up since Friday. I am tired, but it is always worth it," she said.

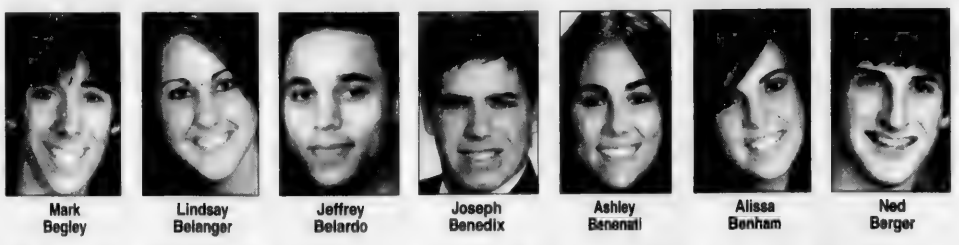

As students took pictures with friends and ate candy from the tables, Debi Hopkins, activities committee chairwoman, continued to help out. "This is my sixth year and my last year of pulling an all-nighter," said Hopkins who stayed until 5 a.m. "We start planning for the Safari in December. When it comes to actually setting up, it takes about four days. We receive lots of help and donations. The only rule is that senior parents can't volunteer on the actual night of the

Steven Brickman wouldn't mind snagging a career making music for movies.

Steven Brickman

Looking to score with his music

By Alison McGonagle

Every day, as seniors came into school, Steven Brickman was playing music for them. Now, he's ready for a new gig – life after Andover.

"I am really excited for it, because I have lived in Andover pretty much my whole life," Brickman says. "Some people have trouble leaving home, but I am ready to move on and start a new chapter."

Brickman's next chapter includes study in commercial composition or motion-picture scoring, at the University of Miami, in Florida. He is well known at the high school, and in the community, for his musical talents.

"I'm very musical. I play piano and sax, and I've contributed a lot musically to the school," Brickman says. "I play on the bridge so that people have music while they walk in. I started a pep band to play at school sporting events. I have been involved in many concerts and projects. I try to change people at the high school's lives with music."

Brickman already has some real-world experience in music, as he hosts his own television show on community access, Steve Brickman's Musical Adventure. He says he has been doing performance, and going to conservatory since eighth grade. He has also recently worked with fellow AHS senior Dan Sarno on some movies for their class called Real Life. The course deals with writing scripts and creating movies.

Brickman is also involved in outside projects. A local business owner asked him to write music for a film she was producing.

"I created 100 minutes of music for a yoga film," Brickman says. "It was interesting to see what it is going to be like in the business world. I enjoy creating different types of music for people. There's money and creativity involved in all aspects of it. If you love what you do, you never work another day in your life."

Brickman says he has had many good times with friends. Some of his favorite activities include playing poker, eating Chinese food, and going bowling.

"It'll be tough leaving the same group of friends I've had since middle school," he says. "We're going to try to keep in contact. Maybe one day we'll come back together and start a business."

Brickman is a four-year member of the Ultimate Frisbee team, and participates in the Andover Youth Council.

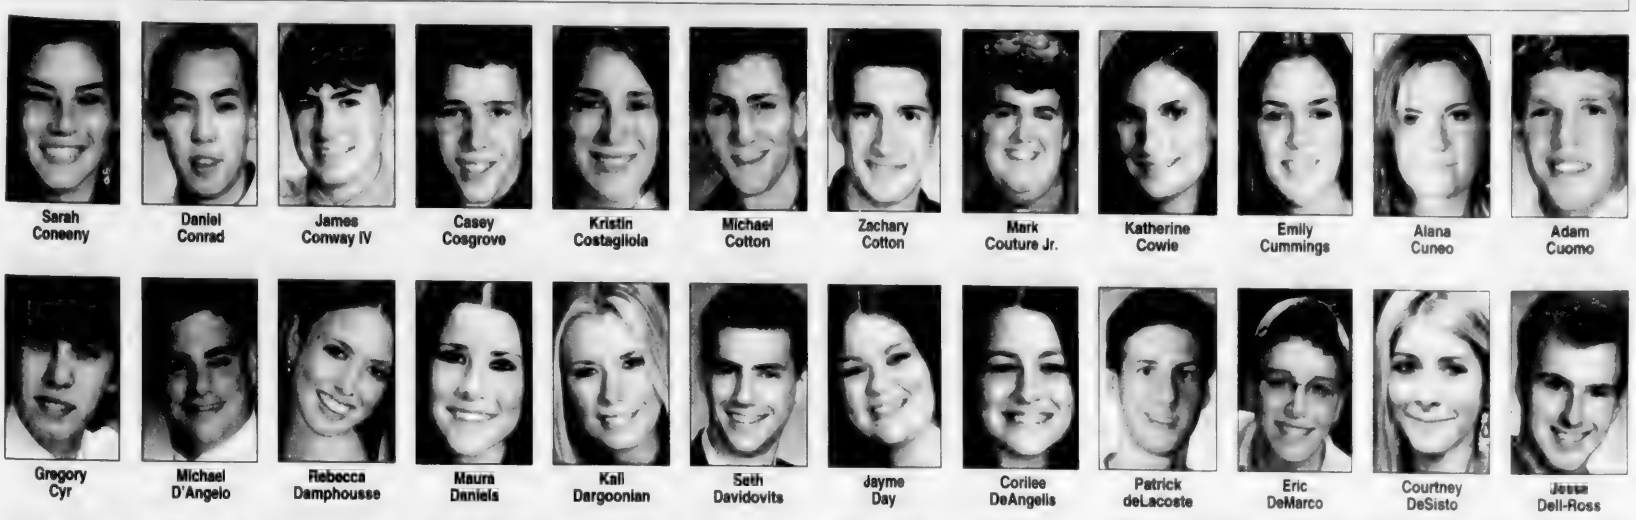

"High school has been a really good experience for me," says Brickman, "Learning who I am, fitting in with friends, and learning what it is like to live in a closed environment before I escape into the real world. I am ready to move on into that new stage."

ANDOVER HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 2006

Lindsay Popper expects to see the world through a different lens in college.

LINDSAY POPPER

Outward bound graduate

By Alison McGonagle

Some Andover High School graduates wonder what life will be like outside Andover. Lindsay Popper already knows – and is looking forward to further exploring other cultures.

Popper moved to Andover from Louisville, Ky., before seventh grade.

"Andover is incredibly different from Louisville," says Popper, who lives with her father and step-mother. "Louisville is a city, and is economically and racially diverse. Andover is white-bread and rich, and it's been different."

Popper certainly adjusted well, as her record of academic, athletic, and extra-curricular involvement shows. She participated in cross country and outdoor track, the knitting club, Girls Leadership Action Motivators, and National Honor Society, after being inducted as a junior. Popper and some friends also have volunteered at a Cambridge soup kitchen on Thursday nights for the past year.

"We serve food, cook, clean, talk to people, and eat with them," Popper says. "I am inspired to pursue social work to work with homeless."

Following in the footsteps of her older sister, who is a sophomore at Tulane University in New Orleans, Popper plans to head south for college, enrolling at Warren Wilson College in Asheville, N.C. She plans to double-major in social work and outdoor leadership.

"Outdoor leadership prepares students for careers as outdoor work, like being an Outward Bound instructor, which interests me," Popper says. She has been on two trips with Outward Bound, both at sea.

"One of the classes for the outdoor leadership major is canoeing. I think I'd really like that," says Popper.

She says she's ready to make the jump from high school to college, but is a little apprehensive.

"It's nerve-racking, thinking what comes after high school," Popper says. "As annoying as high school is, it is comfortable. I know the time frames and the expectations. In a month, I won't have that anymore. Sometimes it's harder to make your own decisions."

Her record shows she's ready for the challenge of freedom, with three independent studies under her belt, already. She pursued the study of photography, poetry, and Chinese independently.

She also participated in the high school's Odyssey course. The course earns a student two credits, and explores four different cultures: Spain, China, Russia and South Africa.

For Kelsey Shaw, the path less traveled wasn't cross country – or any other sport. It was poetry and prose.

Kelsey Shaw

The pen proved mightier

By Brian Davidson

For the Buddha, it happened while sitting under a bodhi tree. For Andover High graduate Kelsey Shaw, enlightenment struck during a hike through the woods.

"The middle years of high school were hard for me," she says. "I suddenly realized that everything I was doing was for somebody else. I wasn't doing anything for myself."

Shaw turned to a path less traveled, quitting athletics, becoming active in Andover youth groups, and satisfying her itch to write.

She is currently a member of the Youth Action Council, and served as co-chair for the Andover Youth Council this past year.

"It's the kind of commitment that makes you want to be there," she says. "The people who work for Youth Services can change the way you think about yourself."

Shaw will be attending Sarah Lawrence College in New York next year, where she plans to enroll in their creative writing program.

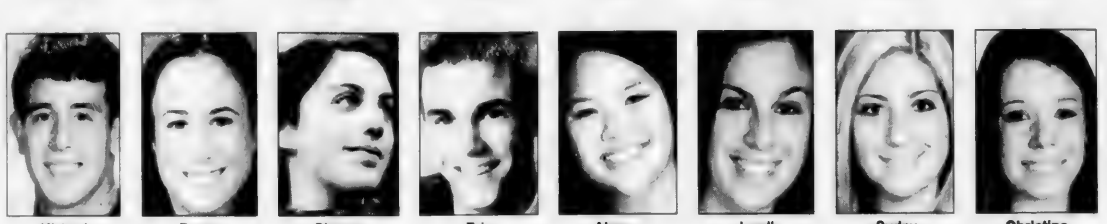

"I know whatever I'm going to do is going to involve writing," she says.

Shaw has already composed a book of short fiction, prose and poetry, and most recently compiled 15 poems for her senior exhibition project. She was the recipient of Memorial Hall Library's poetry award earlier this year, which drew about 350 submissions, and received an award for excellence in democracy in media literature from Andover High.

Shaw still doesn't what kind of writing career she'll fashion for herself, but she knows that whatever she decides to do, she will do for herself.

"I'm still entertaining my ultimate fantasy, which is to be a fashion columnist for a magazine like Vogue or Vanity Fair," she says. "My mom thinks it's really vain, but I don't care. I think it's a great idea."

Mike Besser's politics lean left, and he'll soon be heading South, for four years of politics in the nation's capital.

MIKE BESSER

He'll get charge in DC

By Judy Wakefield

Ten years from now you just might be calling Mike Besser a mayor or a state representative. Or maybe he'll be a campaign manager. There's no doubt this Andover High School senior will certainly be involved with politics somewhere. After all, his college shopping centered on schools with internships connected to government. So, it's no surprise he is headed to the University of Maryland, just miles from Washington, D.C. He's already got an internship lined up and aches to work in the office of a senator or congressman.

"It's just a fascination with me. I have always liked politics, especially the process of how it works," says this polite and affable 18-year-old.

He's already worked on campaigns for state Reps. Barry Finegold and Barbara L'Italien. Most recently, he worked as the campaign manager for Dan Grams' successful Andover Housing Authority bid.

"As a JV baseball coach at AHS, I am honored to know hundreds of wonderful students," Grams says. "Mike is one of those students that come along but once in a decade."

Even when his candidate doesn't come up a winner, Besser still appreciates learning from the process. He was a volunteer at the National Democratic Convention, held in Boston in 2000 (he was just 12 years old) when a candidate named Al Gore was all the rage. Of course, George W. Bush won that election.

Besser later founded an AHS club called Young Democrats when he was a freshman and brought in speakers to talk about various issues.

Last weekend, six years later, he attendend the state's Democratic convention in Worcester, to see Deval Patrick, his top choice for governor, garner the most support. Besser was one of the youngest delegates, but at least he is now old enough to vote.

Besser says his Andover High history teachers did a great job feeding his fascination with politics. So did his scouting experiences. An Eagle Scout, he was saluted recently in a Court of Honor ceremony for his public service.

"I think scouting and politics are connected. Both focus on public service," Besser says.

Downtime typically means checking online for his fantasy baseball league.

Grams predicts this political buff will hit a home run when it comes to succeeding in life.

"He's just a terrific kid," he says.

It's summer, and I'm still learning!

We hear this all the time from our students: the summer offers an opportunity to improve and get a headstart on the next school year. Most of them work to strengthen basic skills, while others attend Huntington in order to "get ahead." In some cases, parents merely want their child to avoid getting "rusty" over the long vacation.

How can we meet the needs of so many different students? First, we design programs to address the specific needs of each child. Then, our certified teachers provide personal attention and individualized instruction, sprinkled with encouragement and praise. As a result, our students improve their skills, and their self-confidence soars.

Give us a call. We can put a smile on your child's face and get ready for the next school year!

Central Air Conditioning
for homes with hot water or steam radiator heat.

If a home doesn't have forced air heat, installing ductwork for central air conditioning can mean major remodeling and expense. But a Unique Indoor Comfort® system doesn't require large metal ductwork or major remodeling.

Cool air is delivered through small 2" flexible metal tubing that can easily be weaved through walls and ceilings, around studs and other obstacles. All that's visible are small round outlets in every room. What's more, Unique Indoor Comfort® offers Lennox high efficiency equipment.

Proven in thousands of homes, easy to install Unique Indoor Comfort® is the central air conditioning solution for the older home.

Students make teacher optimistic

■ GRADUATION

to the classrooms," said Anderson upon accepting the gift. "Even greater is your gift acknowledging his influence on you."

AHS English teacher Greg Waters encouraged the graduates to leave the world a better place. He reminded them that their membership to the class of 2006 means that they are more importantly members of the next generation. He urged them to take advantage of their privileges, using them with "absolute integrity."

"You can be better than us," he told them. "You must be better than us, or the world will not change."

In Anderson's address to the graduates, he encouraged them to dream wildly. He challenged them to hold on to dreams that go beyond what is considered acceptable, to have some "wild fancies ... the kind that make your mother and father quake when they hear you want to do this."

His message wasn't lost on graduating senior Andre St. Pierre.

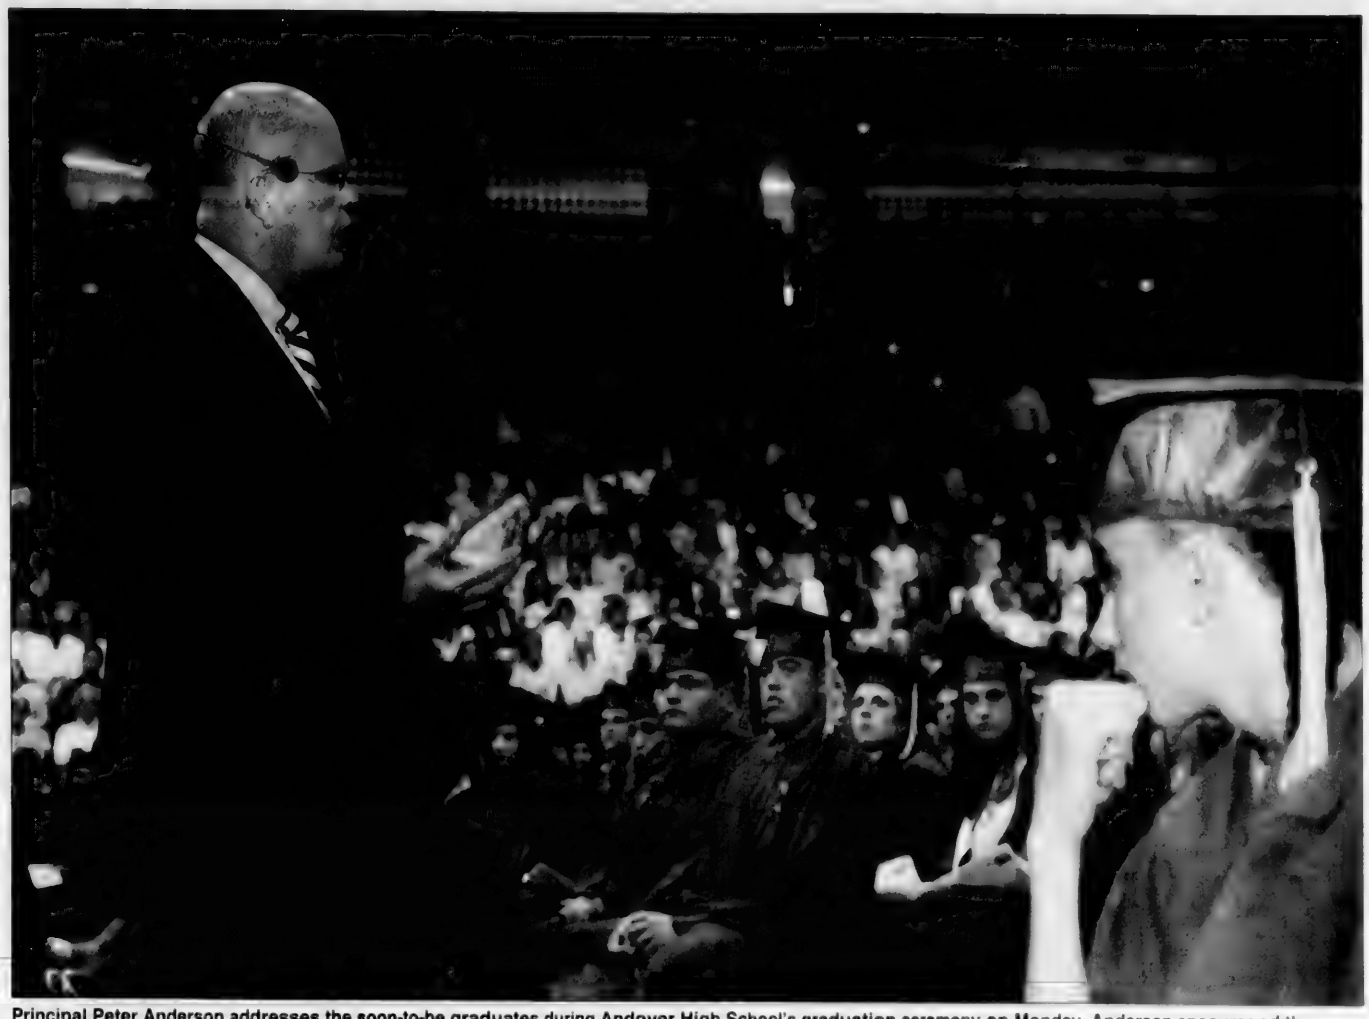

"My big dream?" St. Pierre said. "Rock star."

Typical of Anderson, the principal didn't deliver a typical commencement speech. While at last year's ceremony he made his entrance on bicycle, in the middle of this year's speech he surprised the audience with "the Peter Anderson All-Star Musical Review," which entailed a student and faculty composed band playing Shining Star, by Earth, Wind and Fire. Anderson, who jokingly played the cow bell during the song, told the class to take seriously the message it conveyed.

"If you think this country doesn't need shining stars, you're deathly mistaken," he said. "We're in desperate need of shining stars."

Waters has confidence in this year's graduates, he said, having already seen them shine during their high school careers. Each year the class raised more money than any other class before it for the school's annual Santa Fund.

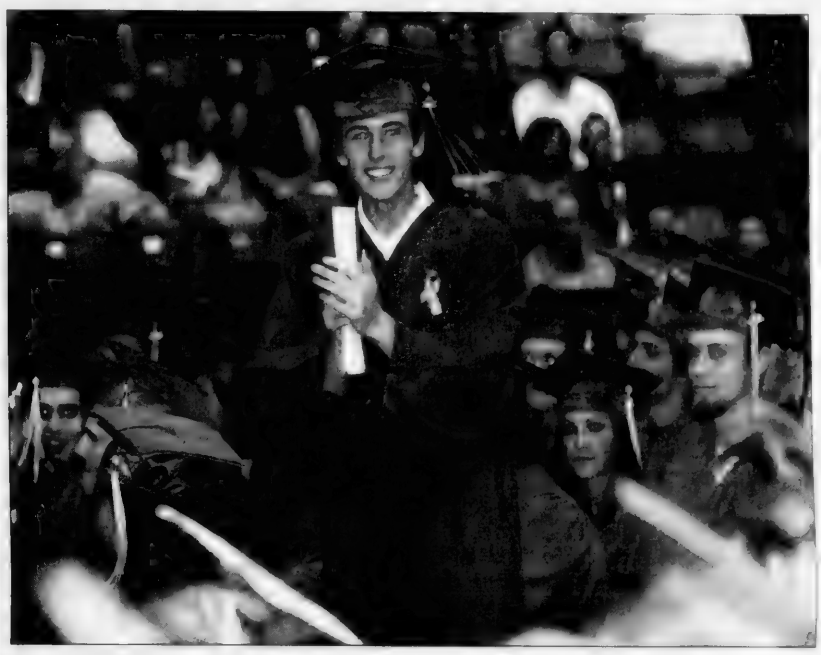

"From what I have seen in the past four years, I am optimistic for the future," he said.

Principal Peter Anderson addresses the soon-to-be graduates during Andover High School's graduation ceremony on Monday. Anderson encouraged the graduates, most of whom are heading off to college, to maintain "wild fancies."

safari. This night is for the seniors."

Air hockey tables and human bowling were new to the safari this year. Also new was an appearance by Dave Fazio, a physical education teacher at AHS, who arrived at 11:30 to play Simon Says.

"We like to tweak the activities every year so that there are some surprises," said Hopkins.

"Safari Psychics" was a returning favorite. Janice Gallon, a tarot card reader and medium for approximately 25 years, was conducting 10-minute readings.

"I love to answer questions for people. It is so important to answer questions and guide people in the right way," said Gallon who stayed until 2 a.m. "This is my first year doing readings here. It is such a large school and it is amazing how they transform this place."

If the wait for one of three psychics was too long, students could enjoy dancing, sign yearbooks, eat Chinese food, paint their nails, get henna or stick-on tattoos, indulge in some ice cream, grab water from one of the buckets marked "Watering Hole," sumo wrestle, play Dance Dance Revolution, relax in the designated quiet area, make jewelry, quench their thirst with a smoothie, play arcade games, or get a hair cut.

"I just shaved my head and then got a henna tattoo," said Mikey Haugh who will attend Dean College. Salon Marc Harris of Park Street was styling hair.

"This place is like a carnival," said Joe Benedix who will attend Clemson University.

The last thing on the agenda for the evening was the hypnotist who came at 3:30 a.m. Luke Bruno, who will attend the University of Arizona, was eagerly awaiting this event.

"This is the last time the seniors are all together as a class," said Hopkins. "Many students are unaware that while they are running around having fun, we have photographers taking candid pictures that are developed and put into a time capsule. The capsule will then be opened at their fifth-year class reunion. This is a way to capture memories and relive them in the future," she said.

"Senior Safari is such a good idea," said Leslie Barber who will attend the University of Massachusetts Amherst. "I will never forget this night."

Phillips Academy class of 2006 graduates

By Stephen Porter
Director of Public Information
Phillips Academy

PHILLIPS ACADEMY HELD ITS 228TH commencement ceremony Sunday, June 4 for the class of 2006, a class consisting of 309 seniors – 160 boys and 149 girls.

About 3,000 people attended the graduation exercises, which took place in front of Samuel Phillips Hall on the school's Great Lawn. In a time-honored Andover tradition, the graduation procession of faculty and students was led by the stirring sounds of the Clan MacPherson Pipes and Drums of Lawrence. Boys wore suit coats and ties; girls wore white dresses, and each carried a red rose.

Sunday's celebration followed a weekend of commencement events, including a senior-faculty banquet, a senior concerto concert, and a candlelight baccalaureate service Saturday evening in Cochran Chapel.

In addition to the 37 students from Andover (below), the 2006 graduating class includes students from such local towns as Lawrence, Methuen, Lowell, North Reading, North Andover and Haverhill. Other US cities represented by the students include New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. International students hail from Canada, England, China, Japan, Nigeria, Saudi Arabia, Korea, Thailand and Germany, among other countries.

In her commencement address to the graduates, Head of School Barbara Landis Chase spoke of hospitality, honesty, hard work, and hope – four characteristics she said she hoped the students "found in abundance at Phillips Academy" and which they will carry with them into the future.

Recalling how Andover started off its year by taking in 19 students displaced by Hurricane Katrina, Chase told the assembled audience, "Hospitality has to do with the way we open our minds and hearts to outsiders, and it rang in our new year." Two of those students, she noted, were members of this year's graduating class.

Chase also spoke of the "beauty and redemptive quality of work," telling the students that "what I hope for each of you is that you will find work that makes you happy – not every minute of every day, but often enough to be sustaining, personally absorbing, and meaningful to a community beyond yourself."

Finally, she spoke of hope, quoting the poet Emily Dickenson, who wrote that hope "is the thing with feathers."

"Hope does indeed take flight on the wings of teaching and learning," said Chase. "It is one of the major products of a liberal education. As a student you gain fresh knowledge, expand your understanding, and in the process can scarcely escape a feeling of hope for your future. And as you think about how you will use that knowledge and understanding, you feel a sense of hope that you can make a real impact on the world."

School President Ali Siddiqi '06 of Salem, N.H., drew laughter from his classmates and the assembled crowd as he shared his memories of his four years at Andover, while also paying tribute to the education he received. "Although my world has been Andover, I have come to know the world through Andover because the world is at Andover. The world is here not only in the form of international students, but the world is here in the form of international ideas, international discussions, and international concerns."

He admitted that leaving the school behind is difficult, but encouraged his fellow seniors to take the spirit of the school out into the world with them. "Yes, the memory and legacy of Andover can stay alive in your heart, but why not put it into action so that everywhere you go, everyone you meet, can be affected by this place, this world that we have come to love?"

Following the speeches, Chase presented five major prizes to outstanding members of the graduating class.

The recipients were:

• Kendall M. Massengil of Richmond, Va. received the Non Sibi Award, given to the student who has honored Phillips Academy's non sibi (not-for-self) tradition through efforts on behalf of others. She will attend Washington & Lee University.

• Thomas M. Dignard of Reading received the Yale Bowl, given to the member of the senior class who has attained the highest proficiency in scholarship and athletics. He will attend Yale University.

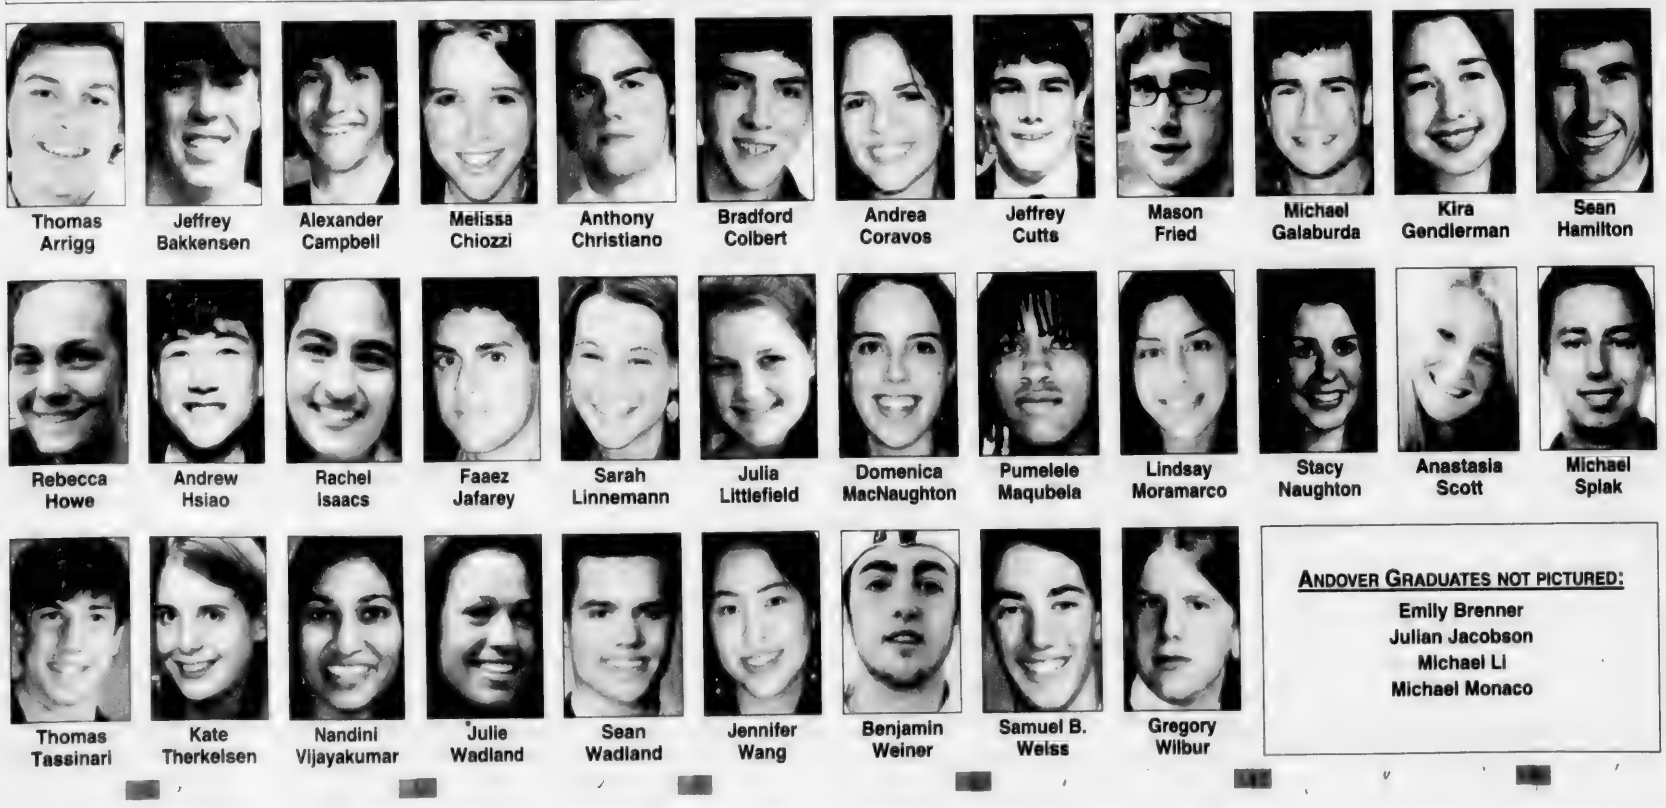

• Warakorn Kulalert of Bangkok, Thailand received the Faculty Prize for outstanding scholarship during the senior year. He will attend Harvard University.

• Katherine M. Faulkner of Homer, Alaska received the Madame Sarah Abbot Award, given to a young woman for strong character, leadership and outstanding scholarship. She will attend Harvard University.

• Ali Siddiqi of Salem, N.H. received the Aurelian Honor Society Award for sterling character, high scholarship and forceful leadership. He will attend Columbia University.

The Phillips Academy class of 2006 will matriculate at a total of 107 four-year colleges and universities. Top choices, accounting for almost 33 percent of the class, include: Harvard, 18; Brown, 13; Yale and Georgetown, 12 each; University of Pennsylvania, 10; Cornell and Trinity College, 9 each; and Duke and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 8 each.

Organizers hoping for the "Goldilocks effect"

Get set for Andover Days

5K walk/run starts event tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

By Brian Davidson

The first annual Andover Days festival held two years ago was too wet. Last year, it was too hot. This year, Andover Days coordinators hope the weather will be just right.

"They say third time's a charm," said Diane Hender, organizer of the event for the past two years.

The third annual Andover Days will be this weekend, starting with a 5K walk/run at 6:30 p.m. on Friday and continuing all day Saturday with a number of activities and performances in the Park.

"Almost everything is free," said Hender. "And there will be lots of things that are child focused."

Saturday's events will be from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., and will include a dunk tank provided by Youth Services, World War II military equipment displayed by Veterans services, and hourly Trolley Tours of historic downtown put on by the Historical Society.

"The cost of the trolley is underwritten by local businesses," said Don Robb, who will be taking over as the Andover Days coordinator as Hender moves to Maine. "The business community has really given a lot of support for this."

Andover Days is sponsored by the Department of Community Services, the Historical Society, the Cultural Council, Andover Business Center Association, and the League of Woman Voters.

Many downtown merchants will be having Andover Days sales, and local non-profit organizations will be in the park introducing themselves to residents.

"This really isn't a fund raising event," said Robb. "It's more about building community."

Residents are invited to enjoy performances by local musicians and storytellers on Friday evening and throughout the day on Saturday, and should bring their appetites, according to Robb, as "tons of food" will be availiable

"You can't have an event anymore without hot dogs and pizza," he said

There will be also be a raffle drawing at 4 p.m. Saturday for the chance to win any of 13 baskets containing at least $200 worth of products and gift certificates donated by downtown businesses

Tickets, $5 each or $10 for three, will be sold today, Thursday, and tomorrow at noon

Acting Out to perform Annie spoof

By Judy Wakefield

The cast of Annie was rehearsing. Seventeen young actresses had memorized their lines and songs. The costumes were getting ready. The tech crew was just about to fiddle with the sound system and lights for the stage.

Then, 45 days into rehearsing, it had to close. A traveling Equity Union version of Annie was coming to Boston on the same June weekend, effectively cutting off the local version at its knees.

Acting Out, whose director is from Andover, was ordered to close down its show or face legal trouble from the Equity Union.

Those 17 actresses were devastated that the curtain was coming down before their Annie show even opened.

"How can I describe the disappointment?" said director Penny Kohut, a transplanted Manhattanite performer who lives in town.

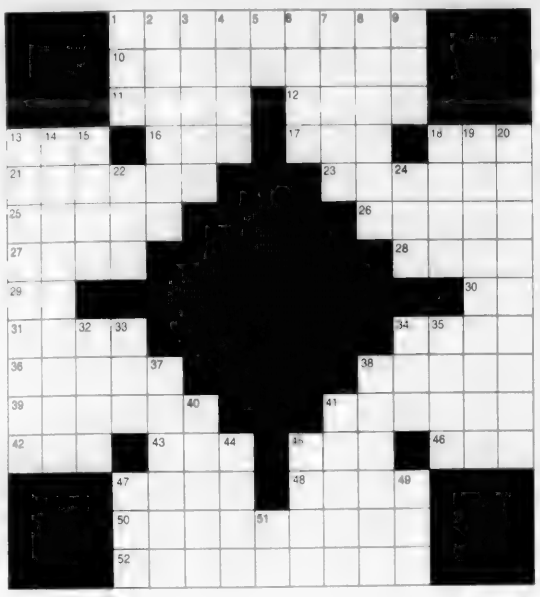

Kohut and co-director Linda Schoonmaker of North Andover are well-known in these parts for their Saturday Night Live-style skits, and Annie was

These young actresses are upbeat again as their show is back on. Frannie began as Annie, but legal action forced the change.

On Wednesday nights from June 28 through Aug. 23, the Park Bandstand will be the place for townspeople to meet and enjoy the free DCS concerts.

Summer concert series in Park kicks off June 28 at bandstand

The Department of Community Services invites the community to a series of free concerts in the Park beginning Wednesday, June 28 at 6 p.m. Local musician Robert Montbleau will breeze into town with his band, Category 3, to open the summer series. Montbleau and his three-piece band play songs ranging in style from Beatles to Weezer, offering up some fun for everyone.

During the holiday week, a concert leads up to the fireworks at Andover High School on Monday, July 3 with a performance by the Bill Winniker Band from 6 to 8 p.m.

On the morning of the Fourth of July, the Middlesex Concert Band will play starting at 11, at the Park Bandstand. Stop by for some pancakes, see the parade, play some games with the kids, and enjoy the music, organizers said.

The Wednesday evening concerts return to the Park on July 12 with '60s Invasion; followed by

July 19 – Ben Rudnick & Friends (bluegrass);

July 26 – Bill Scism's Jazz;

Aug. 2 – Windham Community Band;

Aug. 9 – Peking & The Mystics (a capella);

Aug. 16 – Quintessential Brass; and

Aug. 23 – Four Guys in Tuxes (requests).

If it rains, the concerts will be held on Thursdays. Bring your picnic supper, chairs or blankets, and bug spray.

The evenings (from 6 to 8) are designed to be fun for the whole family, where young and old alike have a great time.

For more information, call Mary Donohue at DCS at 978-623-8277.

APARA SHARMA
Cosmetic & Family Dentistry

Is this really a dental office? This is perhaps the most frequent question asked by people who step into my new office at 16 Haverhill St. Andover, Ma. With an international music mix playing in the background, the calming effect of the waterfalls, exotic display of plants and flowers, and captivating artwork from local artists displayed on the walls, patients sometimes forget why they are here.

A year ago, I wanted to return to my hometown of Andover and create an environment that my staff and I would enjoy working in and that my patients would enjoy being treated in. It has been a fun and exciting journey that I hope to continue for many years. Starting my own practice has given me an opportunity to bring together my creative side and my professional goals.

The office is outfitted with the latest in dental technology such as digital x-rays and electronic medical records, giving patients a chance to experience the advance in dentistry in a comfortable and relaxing environment.

In addition to general and cosmetic dentistry, we also offer the latest techniques including Invisalign (clear braces) to our patients as well as many other dental care needs. For a free consultation on "INVISALIGN", call our office at (978) 470-2233.

I feel extremely lucky and blessed to have the support of my family, friends and the community in this venture. The warmth that I have received from patients who have given me the privilege to work with them continues to stimulate our office in making it better every day.

Dr. Sharma is located at 16 Haverhill St., Andover, on Rte 133 near Shawsheen Square. Hours are Monday, 8 a.m. – 6 p.m., Tuesday, closed, Wed. 8 a.m. – 5 p.m., Thursday 8 a.m. – 6 p.m., Friday, 8 a.m. – 2 p.m., Sat., by appointment.

ABCA raffle chance to 'Pick Your Prize'

The Andover Business Center Association will hold a "Pick Your Prize" raffle as part of Andover Days, with the drawing Saturday, June 10, at 4 p.m. in the Park.

Proceeds from the "first annual" raffle will fund a planned annual scholarship, awarded at graduation to an Andover High School senior who has evidenced the creativity and drive of entrepreneurship.

There will be 12 themed baskets, including "Park Street Shopping Spree," "For Him," "For Her," "Home Sweet Home," "Good Sport," "Dining at Home with Style," "Dining Out in Andover," "Family Fun," "For Teens Only," "The Butler Bank Gift Basket," and "Your Town."

The raffle tickets will be sold at downtown stores; during Andover Days in the Park on Friday evening, June 9 during the 5K Walk/Run; and on Saturday in the Park and in front of Old Town Hall. Tickets are $5 each, or three tickets for $10. Ticket holders place purchased tickets in the category of choice; they need not be present to win.

All proceeds will go to Andover Dollars For Scholars, a town fund that manages a number of scholarships for various individuals and groups.

"People sometimes complain about the downtown businesses not being generous," said Hender.

"Many of them are extraordinarily generous with both their time and their coin."

Playing the lead in Acting Out's performance of Frannie is Kendall Beals, 10, of North Andover.

Frannie

■ ACTING OUT

rescued within hours of that phone call from the Equity Union. Only now she is Frannie and her show is a spoof on the well-known Broadway show, Annie.

Kohut insists the sun will come out for showgoers as Frannie is innocently likable and has red curly hair. She doesn't exactly fit in at her elite prep school – Academy of Nelson Nelson Ignatius Edward (forming the acronym ANNIE) – where she is writing a play, not looking for her parents.

The nasty headmistress is Miss Flanagan, not Miss Hannigan, and her sleazy brother and his girlfriend are named Turkey and Daisy, not Rooster and Lily. The production company head is a man named Orville Starbucks – not Sir Oliver "Daddy" Warbucks. The parody goes on and on; Frannie's plot is set.

"It's just so funny," said singing actress Susan Welch of Andover.

There's no dog named Sandy in this show. Instead, Welch has brought her singing pipes back to life in this show and plays a teacher named Sandy.

Welch's husband and daughter also have roles in the play, and she is thrilled about the family's appearance. She said it's been a dose of "theatrical therapy" as her mother-in-law was displaced from her Washington Park condo due to flooding last month.

"I've been on the phone a lot trying to help her and then coming to rehearsals and being thankful for this outlet," said Welch, who runs Oaktree Press with her husband, Greg Welch, and is also a portrait photographer.

She used to sing with her husband in a band, but the birth of their daughter, Amy, and launching a new business didn't leave her enough time for singing. She hasn't sung in 10 years, but listeners would never know it.

"It's so alive, so creative and original here," she said of Acting Out's stage in Lawrence. "I found my blood pressure goes down... This show is funny but being here is soothing for me."

Barbara McGovern, another Andover actress in the show, is a member of the Sunrise Singers at Andover's Senior Center. She said she likes the original music in the show and Kohut's crisp writing style.

"It's a little over the top, but that's how we write our shows," said Kohut, whose other shows include Clue, Express Line and Plaza Suite. "I think people will really like it."

Closet Classics of Andover

Owned and operated by Andover resident Nick Ardagna, Closet Classics of Andover, offers a local and more personalized alternative to solving your whole home organizational needs.

Compared to the larger, national franchise-types of storage providers, Closet Classics is locally owned, operating right here out of Dundee Park. "It is a service business", says Nick. "My product is no different from the competitors. It comes down to good designs, professional and courteous installers, and competitive pricing. That's where we differentiate ourselves.

"It's more than a closet company", says Nick. "We provide storage for the entire home, including closets, garages, home office, pantries, basement storage and mudroom areas".

At Closet Classics of Andover, we believe that organizing your home is the key to simplifying your life. After the free in-home design consultation takes place, you will be left with a complete set of drawings and pricing so that you can review at your leisure, and compare with the competition if you like. We never pressure you to make a quick, uninformed decision. The process is easy.

Free design consultations can be arranged by calling 978-475-2433 or visiting our showroom at Dundee Park, Building 4. Visit our website at www.ccandover.com

TOWN TALK

AYS checking postmarks

Bribes won't work. Nor will those heavily-decorated envelopes that cleverly beg for a space on an AYS trip this summer. A simple June 5 postmark matters most.

It's that time of year when Andover Youth Services holds registration for its popular summer trips for hundreds of middle-schoolers in town. Sixty-four overnight and day trips, with names like "H2 O-Yeah" (to Water Country) and "Rock the Block" (to Block Island), are being offered to kids who have completed grades 6, 7 and 8. Sign-ups started Monday.

AYS Director Bill Fahey remembers the scores of young teens who used to camp out on the steps of Doherty Middle School to register and secure their spot on an AYS trip.

But neighbors complained, the police showed up and Fahey knew there had to be another way to hold registration.

Three years ago, AYS went postal, so to speak, with its mail-in registration. Fahey said the forms pour in this week and AYS staffers are sorting them. Kids find out if they are in or out after June 19.

"June 5 postmarks get handled first and then the 6th through the 10th," he said. "It's fair, but we know some parents won't be happy because their kid didn't get into a first-choice trip."

Advice to parents: Don't give up. There are wait lists and often kids change their minds. AYS often turns to the wait list, Fahey said.

Futile battles for holidays

Each time March 17 rolls around – Evacuation Day, as it is known to Statehouse employees – most Bay Staters find themselves green with envy. That's because March 17 is also St. Patrick's Day, and employees of Boston and the Statehouse get it off as a paid holiday.

Now, the Senate has passed an amendment to its state budget that would make the day, along with Bunker Hill Day, June 17, another Statehouse holiday, a holiday for all state employees.

State holidays cost thousands of dollars in pay for those receiving time off, and in overtime for employees such as police and firefighters, who have to be on duty.

Although no one expects the item to stay in the final budgets, state Sen. Susan Tucker voted against the amendment.

"We already have more days off than most private sector employees," Tucker said. "The holiday itself is silly. I've never agreed with the Statehouse or city of Boston having those days off."

An effort to save state money, and eliminate the two holidays from state payrolls, was shot down by the Senate.

Calling all piggy banks

About 200 piggy banks that are collecting money for the proposed new youth center are still in circulation and can be turned in on Saturday, June 10 during Andover Days. There will be a Andover Youth Foundation table set up in the Park during the event.

Anyone who would like to fill up an empty bank and donate the money toward the youth center construction project may pick up an empty bank at the table, said AYF member Sheila Stone.

Face-reading comes to local book-launch party

Master of physiognomy reads faces of three Andover newsmakers

By Judy Wakefield

AN AUTHOR IS PUTTING A FACE on her launch party in Andover – literally.

Author Rose Rosetree will be in town tomorrow night as she is on tour promoting her new book. She'll be at Circles of Wisdom, the Main Street store that carries her books.

She'll talk about face-reading – a 5,000-year-old tradition long dismissed by scientists – but interesting to some, if only for entertainment. Rosetree has been reading faces for years and traveling the globe with her insights.

By e-mail from Ireland earlier this week, Rosetree explained that the formal name for face reading is physiognomy, "which means interpreting the face to learn about the inner person."

She wrote that face-reading is not like a tarot-card reading or fortune-teller session, as it does not predict one's life. Rather, face-reading is about "empowering in the here and now."

"Predictions can be right or wrong, but it's always right (and powerful) to understand yourself," she said.

The Townsman asked Rosetree to do a quick face-reading session of three local newsmakers, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, School Superintendent Claudia Bach and Selectman Ted Teichert.

Rosetree was e-mailed digital photographs of the trio and given only their names. She was not told what jobs they had in town.

All three subjects were notified about the face readings and were asked to comment on Rosetree's observations.

Stapczynski was the only one who did and he was clearly a good sport about the matter.

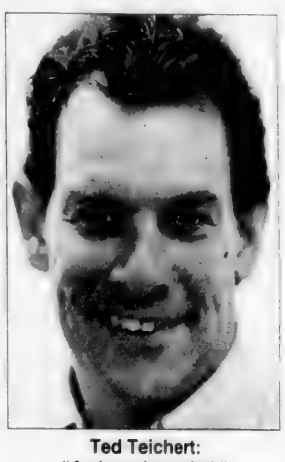

"This is a riot! How can a face reader know so much about me? It was fun to read and some of it is on the mark... not too wacky, either.

"I wish I had Claudia's nose and all that "financial prudence." I also wish I had Ted's dimples... I need some 'guileless charm' in my life," Stapczynski said.

Here is what Rosetree had to say:

Claudia Bach: "Conscientious and careful."

Ted Teichert: "A charming rebel."

Buzz Stapczynski: "Strong opinions."

CLAUDIA BACH: Conscientious and careful.

Even eyebrows suggest her creativity runs toward implementation and thoroughness, rather than innovation.

Angles in eyebrows relate to managerial thinking.

Nose grooves indicate that she doesn't think anyone should get a financial handout but should earn what they spend (and before they spend it).

Large nose tip and small nostrils suggest that she cares about financial prudence and is wary of spending.

Chiseled jaws correspond to determination and pushing herself to achieve.

Up-angled eyes reveal idealism and high expectations of others as well as herself.

[Eye areas] indicate she works hard and may not always take great care of her health, which could result in some temper.

Lip proportions tell us she is persuasive.

One insight from her aura: She is truly civic-minded, someone who genuinely cares about the wellbeing of others.

TED TEICHERT: A charming rebel.

Out-angled ears proclaim he's a bit of a rebel, someone who needs to make his own rules rather than responding to suit the expectations of others.

Curved lower halves of eyes suggest he seems very open to others, taking in loads of information about them. This helps him to gain the trust of strangers.

Dimples, especially in his right cheek, add to the impression of guileless charm.

The narrow nose tells us that, when working, he prefers to do things his own way.

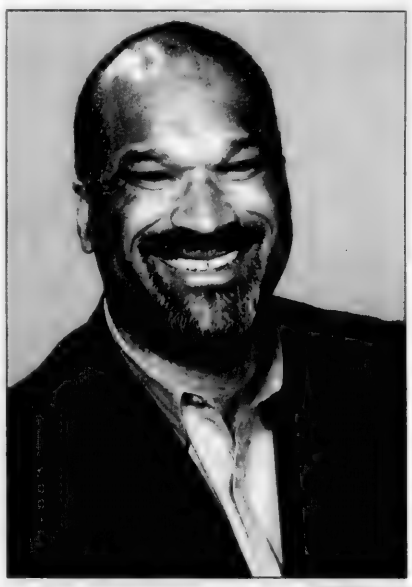

Like Ms. Bach, his lip proportions are about persuasiveness. A potential challenge with this face data is seeing what he can talk people into, and in his case I also note that his smile pulls way over to the right and is higher on the right. These compound the possibility that he may speak one way in public, to achieve his aims, yet conceal somewhat different opinions privately.

One insight from his aura: This is a complex man who has faced his share of ethical struggles.

BUZZ STAPCZYNSKI: Strong opinions from this one!

Extra length from hairline to eyebrows indicate that he prizes learning, discovery, ideas, theories. The potential challenge is appearing as a bit of a theorizer.

ABC graduate Ian Dowe, whose shot-put record still stands at Andover High, has traded that heavy metal ball for a megaphone of sorts. Back in town, he is now an ABC board member and promoter of the program.

ABC in Andover is turning 40

Dowe an early ABC success

By Judy Wakefield

WHEN IAN DOWE REFLECTS on his senior year at Andover High School he salutes his undefeated track team, his many friends and a full scholarship to Holy Cross College that was waiting for him.

He graduated from Andover High School in 1984 and his former track coach and current School Committee member Dick Collins remembers Dowe like it was yesterday.

"I don't like to put sports first, before academics, but he was extremely athletic," Collins said. "In fact, his shot-put record still stands at Andover High and he was the state's Class B champ in the 100-meter when the team was undefeated.

"He was a terrific defensive lineman for us in football and played that position for Holy Cross," Collins said. "And, he was one of our ABC kids."

ABC, the A Better Chance program, enrolls inner city kids at Andover High.

Today, Dowe has traded his heavy shot put for pompons as his new sport is cheerleading: He's back in Andover living, working and singing the praises of the ABC program. He now serves on the ABC Board in Andover, 22 years after graduating. He calls ABC one of Andover's "best kept secrets."

"Andover is doing something positive here and few people know that. I want to change that," said Dowe who came from the Bronx section of New York City to Andover High.

ABC is about to celebrate its 40th anniversary in town and is also enjoying some notice from Democratic governor hopeful Deval Patrick, an ABC student from Chicago.

"Oh, that Milton guy," Dowe laughed and then said the two know each other well. It was Dowe who invited the politician to Andover last December to talk about his ABC experience, he said, "and, he came."

Perhaps the visit will be remembered as Dowe's first step in spreading the good word about ABC in Andover. Dowe points to an impressive history in town that shows ABC graduates go on to good colleges and successful careers.

"If you are willing to work hard, then ABC is the right choice," he said.

For Dowe, whose family immigrated to New York from Jamaica in 1978, it was a pair of junior high staffers from the

FOR SENIORS

By Pat Becker
Andover Senior Center

Here are some of the activities coming up at the Andover Senior Center.

Weight Watchers: We will hold an information and registration session at the senior center today, Thursday, June 8 at 2 p.m. Payment will be due at this time, and anyone planning to attend was asked to sign-up in advance by calling the center. The 10-week Weight Watchers program will get underway on Thursday, June 15 at a cost of $130.

Retirement Series – "Successful Aging In Place": Three-part series looks at points to ponder when considering retirement in the Andover area. "Can You Afford To Stay In Your Home?" Friday, June 9 at 1:30 p.m; "Staying, Selling, Refinancing, Downsizing?", Friday, June 16 at 9:30 a.m.; Housing Fair with representatives from area retirement and "Over 55" communities, Friday, June 23 from 9 to 11 a.m. Call the center to register for any individual session you are interested in.

Painting on Silk: This workshop will take you step by step to a finished, ready to hang silk painting. All materials will be supplied by the instructor in this experience of creating vibrant designs on silk with brilliant fabric dyes. Instructor is artist Merry Beninato. This three-session class will meet Tuesdays, June 13, 20 and 27 from 1 to 3 p.m; $35 plus $8 materials fee.

Golf Group: This friendly group tees off every Tuesday morning (weather permitting) at 7:30 a.m. at the Tewksbury Country Club; $15 for nine holes. For more information about the group, call Bob Henderson at 978-858-0815.

A menu is available at the center; a few spaces are still available for this trip.

Movie Matinee: On Monday, June 26 at 1 p.m., we will show the movie Walk the Line, the life story of the legendary singer Johnny Cash.

Two Shining Stars cited by COA

The Andover Council on Aging created the Shining Star Award last year to recognize "extraordinary service on behalf of Andover's seniors." At its recent Volunteer Appreciation reception at Old Town Hall, the COA announced that its honorees for 2006 are Dorothy Bresnahan and Marlies Zammuto.

Here is what organizers said about the award-winners:

Dorothy Bresnahan's name is synonymous with "seniors in Andover." She has been a member of the Council on Aging for 20 years, served as chair for 10 of those years, and was the COA liaison to the Senior Center Task Force. Bresnahan brings her knowledge and experience to considerations of ways to initiate or improve services to seniors and is a strong advocate for the needs of others. She also is a regular volunteer in the Senior Connections program and participates in intergenerational programs with school children. Bresnahan received the honor and appreciation for her selfless efforts, ongoing advocacy, cheerfulness, humility, dedication, and energy that make her a superb role model.

Marlies Zammuto joined the Council on Aging in 1996 and served as co-chair and chair until last year. She was also co-chair of the Senior Center Task Force and presided over both groups with expert facilitation skills, energy, tact and warmth. Although a new senior center was not supported by the town, her leadership during challenging times created a process that empowered the seniors of Andover to set goals and work together to achieve them. Those nominating Zammuto noted her remarkable ability to educate and direct efforts, cope with difficult situations and keep people on track all without seeming to do so. Zammuto is deserving of recognition and thanks for her commitment to the needs of Andover's seniors and for the countless hours that she dedicated over the past 10 years.

Organizers said the names of Dorothy Bresnahan and Marlies Zammuto will be added to the Shining Star Award plaque at the Senior Center, joining that of last year's winner, Selectman Mary Lyman. The Council on Aging acknowledged those who participated in the nomination process, and expects it to be a difficult decision each year "because of the number of worthy nominees."

ABC is turning 40

Bronx who saw something in him and encouraged him to get involved with ABC.

"An assistant principal would make me stay inside and do schoolwork while all the other kids were outside... He saw it as way to keep me away from trouble," he said. "And I had a teacher who was always encouraging, always pushing me.

"They were angels."

Where it all began in Andover

Dowe enrolled in ABC and came to Andover in 1981. He was placed with a host family, Marcia and Mark Jaffey. They no longer live in town, but Dowe sees them often. In fact, the Jaffeys, who now live in Danvers, visited him at his Andover home Saturday to see Dowe and his family – wife, Allison Reilly, and three kids ages 10, 7 and 16 months.

"They were angels."

AHS '84 GRAD IAN DOWE, IN THE A BETTER CHANCE (ABC) PROGRAM HERE, ON THOSE WHO HELPED HIM TO SUCCEED

The Jaffeys were a young host family. He was 28 and she was just 25 and they didn't have children at the time.

"You have to have a strong relationship with your host family and I did. You have to have someone you can trust," he said.

Dowe celebrates Thanksgiving with the Jaffeys every year and said his relationship with them has evolved into a treasured adult friendship. That is another benefit of ABC.

While he speaks highly of ABC, there has been one curious change to Andover's program since he lived at the ABC house on Main Street. When it was founded, ABC was all male. It went co-ed in the '80s but the last male graduated in 1985, Dowe said.

"Not to discredit the young ladies, but it's a loss not having males in the program," he said. "I'm sad to see it, as there are some shining examples of males in this country who are ABC graduates."

ABC has a rigid screening process and apparently, more females are meeting the necessary criteria, he said.

Currently, there are five young women living on Main Street and attending his alma mater.

Dowe, who has been in Andover for about a year and formerly lived in Cambridge, said house shopping in a suburb with good schools is what brought him back to town.

"I feel like I have reconnected and I'm very comfortable here," he said.

He also moved his 4-year-old advertising marketing agency, called Thinkcollaborative, to town as he runs it from home.

The upcoming 40-year anniversary for ABC in Andover (the dinner is set for May 2007) makes him proud that he now lives here.

"I really want to get the word out about ABC. Andover is doing its part and too many people don't know that," he said.

Wild nights with moon bears

Do moon bears stroll in the moonlight?

Let's hop an airplane to China to find a moon bear on our Wild Summer Vacation.

An 18-hour flight takes us across the Pacific Ocean to China in Eastern Asia. About 1.3 billion people (one fifth of the world's population) live in China. The capital is Beijing.

China is the world's fourth largest country in land area, with about 3.7 million square miles (almost 10 million square kilometers).

The climate varies from tropical areas in the south to sub arctic areas in the north. The eastern coast has lush deltas. The western area has the Gobi Desert and other desert areas. China has mountains, high plateaus, and hills.

The world's tallest mountain, Mount Everest, is found in the Tibet area of China. We also find moon bears in Tibet and other forested mountain areas in Southeast Asia.

Moon bears get their name from the large white crescent moon shape on their chest. They are also known as Asiatic black bears.

A moon bear spends most of its time in trees to avoid predators and humans. Its nest looks like a very large bird nest.

The nocturnal bear sleeps most of the day. It wakes up at dusk to hunt for food. Moon bears prefer meat but will eat plants and insects.

Moon bears are very strong and live 25 to 30 years.

Adult females weigh about 200 to 225 pounds, about the same as a large adult person. However, large males can reach 400 pounds.

How would you like to run into a 400-pound moon bear in the moonlight?

Actually, their strength and size puts moon bears in danger.

As the world population grows, people encroach on habitat for all wild animals. People and bears do not live well together. People are afraid of the bears because they are so strong. Farmers do not like moon bears because they eat farm animals. Local governments encourage hunting the bears.

Experts fear the bears may become extinct if hunting continues. But there's another danger to moon bears.

Traditional Chinese medicine uses bear bile for healing and pain relief. Bears have been killed for thousands of years for their bile and other parts.

Now, the bears are trapped and kept in small cages on farms. Bear farmers gather and sell the bile. About 7,000 moon bears are held captive on bear farms.

In January, the European Union asked China to end bear farming, calling it "cruel and uncivilized."

Caged bears can't take a walk in the moonlight.

AHS ROUNDUP

Pitching in for the tournament win

Warrior teams battling; girls tennis, boys tennis and boys lacrosse still alive in the hunt

By Rick Harrison

Massachusetts State Gatorade Baseball Player of the Year Dan Godefroi fired a masterful eight-hit shutout, striking out seven and issuing no walks, as he pitched heavily-favored Andover High to a nerve-wracking 1-0 victory over familiar foe Lowell High in their MIAA Division 1 North Tournament first-round game Tuesday afternoon at Peter Aumais Park.

The lefty ace, who improved to 8-0 this spring, had to be that good as the Golden Warriors were held to just three hits by Lowell sophomore first-time varsity starter Zac Roy.

Godefroi escaped a first-inning jam, and the locals pushed across the game's only run in the bottom of the third.

As the Townsman went to press Wednesday at noon, four AHS teams were still alive in tourney play with girls tennis, boys tennis and boys lacrosse also extending their season.

All four were scheduled to return to the tournament trail yesterday (Wednesday), but with windswept rain pelting down at presstime and more forecast until the weekend, there was a strong possibility their games/matches would be postponed until today or tomorrow.

The tennis teams could, however, move indoors to play.

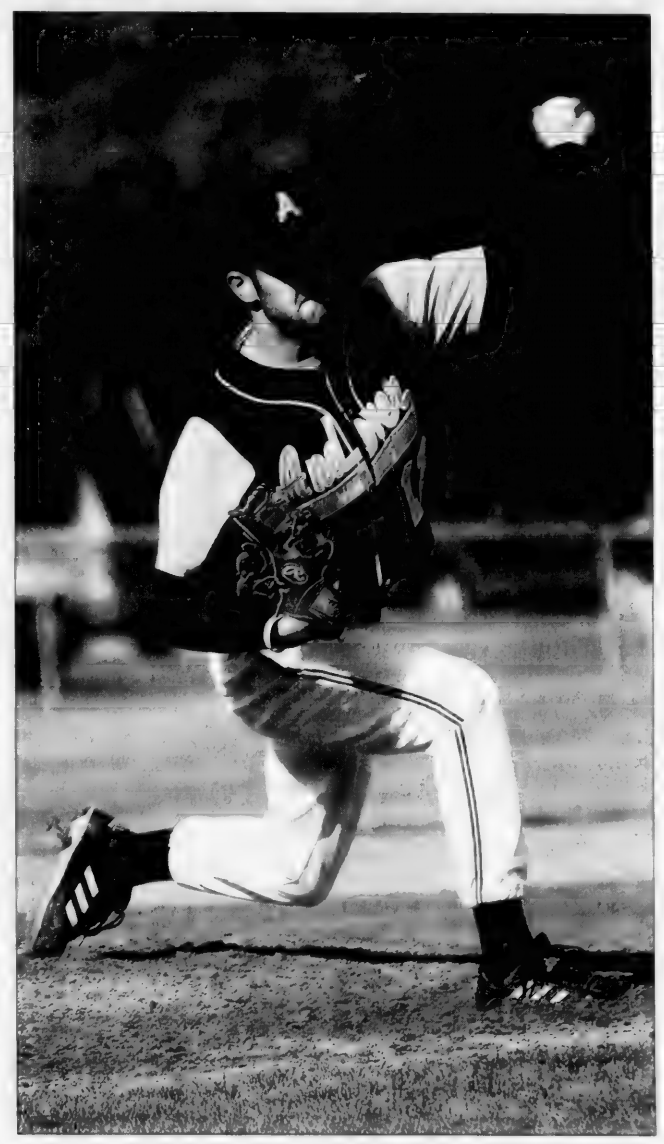

Girls and boys tennis rolled to a pair of tournament wins each, the Lady Warriors ousting Acton-Boxboro and Lowell from the single-elimination competition with two 5-0 sweeps while the AHS boys topped Beverly, 5-0, and Chelmsford, 4-1.

Both were slated to battle strong opponents in Division 1 North semifinals, the girls meeting the same Newton South squad that handed them their only loss this spring, 3-2, while the boys also battled a Dual County League power, Acton-Boxboro, for the first time.

Boys lacrosse registered a 13-9 win over Barnstable in its opening test and was slated to face Malden Catholic yesterday.

Two more Andover teams joined boys volleyball by having their 2006 campaigns come to a close.

Girls lacrosse was edged 16-14 by Lincoln-Sudbury after posting an 11-8 win over Acton-Boxboro, while softball was knocked out by a 4-1 opening loss to Everett.

Dan Godefroi was in control against Lowell, pitching a complete game shutout for the tournament win. Andover bested visiting Lowell, 1-0.

BASEBALL

The powerhouse Andover High varsity baseball team opened defense of its Division 1 North Tournament championship Tuesday with the tight 1-0 squeeze past upstart Lowell.

It was a bit of a surprise because AHS had blasted the Red Raiders twice, 13-4 at home and 11-4 on the road, during the regular season.

This was a long-anticipated, thrice-postponed first-round game at Aumais Park.

The game was moved once by heavy rain, a second time by a wet field and a third time by the AHS graduation ceremonies at Tsongas Arena in Lowell.

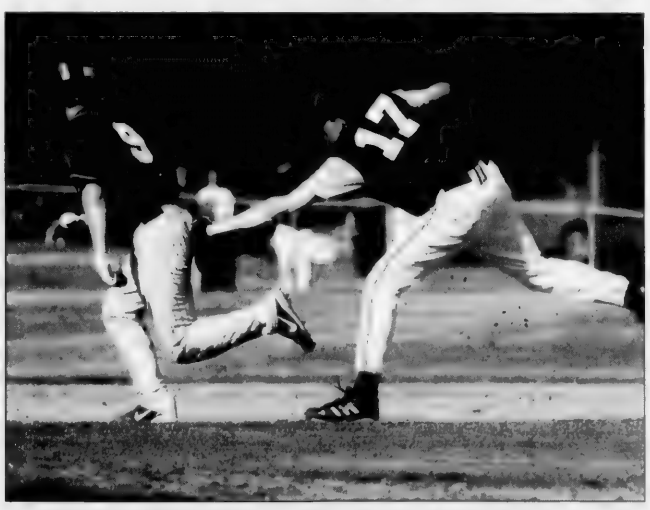

The heavily-favored No. 2 seed Golden Warriors improved to 19-2 overall, including 11-2 as the Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 champion, and the locals are now riding a six-game win streak.

The victory advances the reigning Division 1 North champs to the quarterfinals where they host No. 7 seed Peabody (17-5), which ousted Cambridge Rindge & Latin, 14-5, in its first-rounder, as soon as the weather clears.

"We had a very good week leading up to the tournament," noted head coach Ken Maglio. "(Assistant) Coaches Kevin Rourke and Bob Fitzmaurice have both added something special to the team this season. They have worked very hard to keep us where we are – making my job as head coach much easier.

"Everyone on the team has contributed to an outstanding season," continued Maglio. "It's someone different doing something special every game.

"Our big constants are solid defense and good pitching. We've turned a ton of double plays in the infield and they've been pretty to watch."

Kyle Morander tags out a Lowell player caught in a rundown between first and second base.

The reigning North 1 champs outscored their first 21 opponents this spring by a wide 167-49 margin.

Andover pitchers have registered six shutouts, held three teams to one run and four others to two runs.

Maglio now sports an overall 209-105 won-lost record.

His teams have won or shared seven Merrimack Valley Conference titles and three Division 1 North crowns over the years.

Last spring the Golden Warriors tore through Boston Latin (8-4), Newton North (11-2), Reading (2-0) and St. John's Prep (13-5) on the way to the North title, falling two wins shy of the program's third State Division 1 crown after dropping a 4-2 decision to Walpole in the state semifinals.

Dan Godefroi has now allowed only 26 hits in 52 1/3 innings this spring, with 51 strikeouts and eight walks. His ERA is a miniscule 0.43.

Lowell's biggest threat came in the top of the first when leadoff batter – and tough-luck losing hurler – Zac Roy beat out an infield hit and DH Matt Missett was hit by a pitch.

Colin Dougherty bunted both runners into scoring position, and Corey Donovan tried a suicide squeeze bunt that rolled just foul.

After that Godefroi whiffed Donovan and ended the threat by inducing a flyout to center-fielder Kyle Lightner.

Lowell got just two more runners to second base in the final eight innings, Godefroi settling down and becoming stronger as the game progressed.

The southpaw retired eight of the last nine batters he faced, and 11 of the final 13, from the sixth inning through the ninth.

The Golden Warriors managed only three singles off surprise starter Roy, two by Paul Malaguti and one by Doug Hawkins.

Hawkins scored the only run in the third after leading off the inning with a single.

Mike Pierce bunted him to second and Malaguti drove Hawkins home with a clutch two-out single to left.

The Golden Warriors managed only two baserunners after scoring. Roy struck out 10 and walked three in the most impressive opponent pitching performance versus AHS this spring.

The locals once again sparkled defensively with Greg Carroll, Andrew Hennessy and Kyle Morander turning a 5-4-3 double play.

Shortstop Malaguti was also flawless in the field with six assists.

GIRLS LACROSSE

The Andover High girls varsity lacrosse team launched its MIAA Division 1 North Tournament run with a hard-fought 11-8 victory over a strong Acton-Boxboro High crew in a quarterfinal round game at Lovely Field.

The victory advanced the Lady Warriors into a semifinal round matchup against No. 3 seed Lincoln-Sudbury in a game played at Lovely Field Tuesday evening and won in heart-pounding fashion by L-S, 16-14, as Andover mounted a furious comeback in the final minutes that fell just short.

L-S earned its berth with an 11-6 victory over Peabody.

Lincoln-Sudbury (18-2) advanced to the North title game where it will face undefeated top-seed Framingham (27-0).

Scoring leaders

Rachel Fox, owner of virtually every AHS single-season and career scoring record, led the attack this spring along with Briana Gross, Lindsay Hegarty, Jess Forster, Heather Sullivan and Kelsey Eriksen.

Ally Brown was a defensive standout and Leslie Barber played well in goal.

Andover's only other losses were to Needham (15-14) and Norwell (10-7) in regular season play.

Andover, seeded No. 2 behind undefeated Framingham (27-0) in a 12-team field, rode a five-goal performance from scoring machine Rachel Fox and solid defense to the victory over Dual County League power A-B.

The Lady Warriors inched ahead 7-4 at the half, and were clinging to an 8-7 lead late in the game.

"We called a timeout and came back to score three goals for some breathing room," said head coach and new dad Jon McVeigh.

Junior attack Briana Gross scored two of those tallies and Fox had the other.

"We had key contributions from a lot of people – and Leslie (goalie Barber) made a bunch a big saves.

"It was a great win for us because of who we beat," said McVeigh. "Acton plays in a very strong league and it was a tough first draw.

"The whole division is solid with six teams that only had two losses entering the tournament. Every game is a challenge. It will be quite a task to get through the bracket."

Supporting Fox's five goals and Gross' two were sophomore attack Jess Forster, with two goals and one assist, freshman midfielder Catherine Gross one goal and junior attack Brennan Casey one goal.

Senior midfielder and Capt. Ally Brown, frosh attack Heather Sullivan and junior midfielder Lindsay Hegarty each produced one assist.

"Our defense in general was outstanding," said McVeigh.

Barber finished with 11 saves and the coach also lauded the efforts of sophomore Kelly Driscoll, senior Capt. Jessie Ragnio and sophomore Ilana Cohen.

"Driscoll held Acton's top scorer (Jill LaForest) off the board, and Cohen came off the bench to play her best game of the year.

For No. 7 seed Acton-Boxboro, which finished 16-3-1 overall including an earlier tourney win over Chelmsford, Becca Goldman scored three goals, Katie Peters added two and goalie Brenna Sacra made 12 saves.

Sam Cremmen, Kiara Blough and Theresa Glaser netted one goal apiece.

SEMIFINAL
Lincoln-Sudbury 16
Andover 14

Rachel Fox and Briana Gross scored five goals each for the Lady Warriors, while Fox also handed out three assists as the locals gave L-S all it could handle in the game Tuesday evening at Lovely Field.

Jess Forster, Kelsey Eriksen, Heather Sullivan and Lindsey Hegarty added one goal each, while Leslie Barber finished with 17 saves in this closely-contested battle.

AHS led 2-0 early, the score was tied 7-7 at the half and the Lady Warriors had a 9-8 lead before L-S notched four straight goals to move in front to stay.

Jessica Griffin led Lincoln-Sudbury with four goals.

REGULAR SEASON
Andover 19
Ipswich 11

Rachel Fox poured in seven more goals, while Lindsey Hegarty and Catherine Gross added a hat trick each, as the Lady Warriors wrapped up regular season play with this victory at the Merrimack College turf field.

The locals raced to a 9-4 halftime lead and were never in serious trouble.

Rounding out the attack were Briana Gross, with two goals, and solo tallies from Sarah LoMedico, Jen Quinlan, Brennan Casey and Heather Sullivan.

Briana Gross chalked up a personal season-high four assists, completing a six-point day, while solo setups were credited to Kelly Driscoll, Catherine Gross and Sullivan.

Leslie Barber finished with 14 saves.

four finishers all broke the 2:20 mark.

Shannon also helped the Lady Warriors' 4x400 relay to a fifth place showing at All-States in 4:04.55.

Lincoln-Sudbury won this event in 4:00.02.

The precocious ninth grader, following in the footsteps of former AHS and current Northeastern University standout Brittany Moriarty who won the East and All-State titles twice in the same 800 meters race, had qualified by capturing the Division 1 East title the previous week in a personal-best 2:20.07.

Another Andover freshman, Melissa Knapp, competed in the girls 200 meter dash and finished 24th in 27.28 seconds.

The top eight in each event scored team points, and Andover finished with eight points which tied the Lady Warriors with five other teams for 32nd place in a field of 85 schools.

Lincoln-Sudbury won the girls team title with 31 points, closely followed by Bromfield with 28, Bridgewater-Raynham 27 and Acton-Boxboro 26.

The Andover boys did not score but did have a 26th-place finish by the 4x800 relay team which crossed in 8:36.17.

Xaverian Brothers High of Westwood was the runaway boys team champ with 46 points. Lexington was a distant second at 27.5.

Other AHS athletes who qualified to compete at the All-State Meet were girls' senior Capt. Jen Merinder, third at the Division 1 East Meet in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles with a 46.80 time, and boys junior pole vaulters Andrew Wheelwright and Randy Labrecque who both cleared 11 feet to finish third and fourth respectively at the East Meet (based on misses).

Schedule

The season-ending New England Championship Meet is this Saturday at Willow Brook Park in New Britain, Conn.

SOFTBALL

The Andover High varsity softball team was ousted from the MIAA Division 1 North Tournament much sooner than desired, dropping a 4-1 decision to host Everett in their first (preliminary round) game.

The unceremoniously-quick exit followed a strong finish to the regular season, the Lady Warriors qualifying for the tourney after winning two of its final three games.

The locals clobbered winless Notre Dame Academy of Tyngsboro, 20-0, in their Merrimack Valley Conference season finale.

A spirited rally fell short in a 7-5 loss to North Andover in the semifinal round of the annual Methuen Invitational Tournament, but AHS bounced back in the tourney third-place consolation game to beat the host team 2-0 for the second time this season.

Those results left coach Stephanie Ragucci's Lady Warriors, who qualified for the Division 1 North Tournament for the ninth time in the last 11 years, at 10-11 overall for the 2006 campaign.

Cummings cited

Andover senior centerfielder and Capt. Emily Cummings was voted the 2006 Merrimack Valley Conference Division 2 Player of the Year.

Cummings was also named to the All-Conference Team while junior catcher Becky Cairns, junior pitcher Katie Anderson and senior second baseman and Capt. Maria Nasta are MVC All-Stars.

Five seniors

The Lady Warriors, relatively young this spring, graduate five seniors.

Those who have played their final game for the locals are Emily Cummings, Maria Nasta, Kerry Haugh, Sydny Layne and Caitlin Rivet.

The Lady Warriors had nipped Everett 3-2 in a non-league home game midway through the regular season (April 27), but came up short in the rematch against the Crimson Tide.

AHS grabbed an early one-run lead before a four-run Everett fourth eventually ended the locals' hopes.

The lone run came when Tamar Brady opened the third with a triple and scored on an overthrow.

Andover had runners in scoring position in each of the last two innings – but couldn't get the breakthrough hit.

Katie Anderson pitched well in defeat.

This laugher, halted after five innings by the mercy rule, saw the locals lash 12 hits and put an already lopsided 9-0 game away with a season-high 11-run explosion in the top of the fifth at NDA in Tyngsboro.

Junior Katie Anderson allowed no hits over four innings on the way to her ninth pitching victory. Sophomore Kathleen Cheney worked the fifth and yielded the lone NDA hit while preserving the shutout.

Sixteen players saw action and powering the attack with a pair of hits each were sophomore Tricia Martin, who also scored three runs and drove home one, Capt. Emily Cummings and Becky Cairns who smacked two doubles, drove in two runs and scored twice.

Leadoff batter Maria Nasta had one hit, reached base four times and scored three runs.

Tamar Brady contributed one hit, two RBI and two runs scored, sophomore Nina Yu had a hit, RBI and run scored and senior Caitlin Rivet scored a run and drove one across.

Kerry Haugh crossed the plate twice while freshman Kerry McCarthy, Rachel Licciardi and Allie Navarro each laced a hit and scored.

Kayleigh Biles was elevated from the JV team and saw her first varsity action.

Andover 6
Lawrence 4

The host locals scored three runs in the bottom of the first, took a 4-0 lead in the third and snapped a 4-4 tie with two runs in the last of the sixth.

Katie Anderson tossed a complete-game five-hitter, fanned six, walking five and blanking the Lancers for the first four innings.

Tricia Martin sparked the attack with a perfect 3-for-3 at the plate, including two doubles, and two RBI.

Allie Navarro lashed two hits, including a triple, and drove in a run.

Maria Nasta spanked two safeties, while other triples were launched by Becky Cairns and Sydny Layne.

After falling behind 4-0 early, Lawrence made it interesting by scoring three runs in the fifth and the tying tally in the top of the sixth.

After falling behind 6-0 in the third to a Scarlet Knights' team with a flashy 17-2 record, Andover fought back valiantly but fell just short in this completion of a rain-suspended game.

The locals scored one run in the fourth and four more in the fifth, trimming the deficit to 6-5, but came up empty over the final two innings while NA tacked on an insurance run and relief pitcher Nicole Jones shut the door by retiring six straight batters for the save.

AHS managed six hits including two each for Becky Cairns, who belted a long triple, and Emily Cummings.

Tricia Martin and Kerry Haugh spanked a safety each, and the runs were scored by Maria Nasta, Sydny Layne, Haugh, Cairns and Kerry McCarthy.

Cummings drove in two runs, Martin one and Cairns one.

Pitcher Katie Anderson yielded only three hits but was victimized by one bad inning (five-run third).

"We were too sloppy in the field and it cost us the win," said coach Ragucci.

Consolation Game
Andover 2
Methuen 0

The Lady Warriors had Methuen's number this year, beating the host Rangers (13-8) and ace pitcher Hannah Everson by the same 2-0 score twice (also April 12).

The locals touched Everson for six hits and scored solo runs in the first and sixth innings.

Katie Anderson made them stand up with a three-hit gem for her second shutout in three games and third of the season.

Both pitchers recorded eight K's and Anderson walked three.

Maria Nasta and Becky Cairns led the attack at the top of the order, the 1-2 hitters both finishing 2-for-3 with Nasta slamming a double, triple and scoring both runs while Cairns produced the game's lone RBI on a bunt single.

The insurance run clattered across on a passed ball.

Emily Cummings and Kerry McCarthy laced the other two safeties.

Nasta was named Andover's tourney MVP.

Centerfielder Cummings preserved the shutout in the seventh by gunning down a Methuen runner at the plate.

Coach Ragucci also lauded the defensive work of Cairns at catcher.

"Our backs were against the wall in this one," said Ragucci. "We had actually qualified for the tourney because of our standing in the league – but as far as the kids knew we needed this one to make it and they came through with a solid effort."

BOYS LACROSSE

The Andover High varsity boys lacrosse juggernaut, coming off a best-ever regular season with a 17-1 record including 8-0 as Merrimack Valley Conference champion, was seeded No. 3 in a mammoth field of 27 qualifiers in the single-elimination 2006 MIAA East Division 1 North Tournament.

After receiving a preliminary-round bye, the Golden Warriors began their tourney run with a 13-9 victory over No. 14 seed Barnstable at Lovely Field.

Schedule

The win pushed coach Wayne Puglisi's squad into a quarterfinal round game played last night (Wednesday), after Townsman presstime, against No. 11 seed Malden Catholic (12-6).

The Lancers upset St. John's Prep of Danvers, 11-10 in overtime, after ousting Weymouth, 12-5, in the prelim round.

The winner of the Andover/MC contest moves to the semifinals to face the survivor of the Xaverian versus Billerica game.

No. 2 seed Xaverian (16-3) handed Andover its only loss of the spring, 11-10 on May 2, while AHS won a pair of one-goal barnburners against MVC archrival Billerica, 11-10 on April 8 and 10-9 in double overtime on May 5.

Undefeated two-time reigning state champ Duxbury (19-0) is the division's No. 1 seed and opened with a 22-10 rout of Acton-Boxboro.

Andover has reached double figures in 18 of 19 games and outscored the opposition, 233-106.

Coach Puglisi's overall record in seven seasons – as the only head coach in the history of the AHS boys program, is now 88-47.

Buddy Farnham, Mike Lamagna and Brendan Hughes combined for 10 goals as the Golden Warriors broke a tie midway through the second quarter and went on to defeat the visiting Red Raiders who reached the first round with an 18-10 triumph over Medford in the prelims.

All-Scholastic midfielder Farnham, headed to Brown University next fall to play football and possibly lacrosse, shared game-high scoring honors with four goals while MVC scoring champ Lamagna (85 points) contributed a hat trick and two assists for five points.

Hughes also pocketed three goals, Eric Hanson two and A.J. Drivas netted one goal and set up two.

Mike Ahern and Andy Gatti passed out one assist apiece.

Goalie Nick Reeder was instrumental to the win with nine saves including several on point-blank shots.

The teams were locked in a 3-3 tie after one quarter, but AHS broke away for a 7-4 halftime lead before outscoring the Cape Codders 6-5 in the second half.

GIRLS TENNIS

The Andover High girls tennis team – seeded No. 4 in a 20-school field – got off to a flying start in the MIAA Division 1 North Tournament with 5-0 blitzes of visiting Acton-Boxboro and Lowell in first round and quarterfinal matches at the Willows Racquet Club indoor courts in North Andover and the AHS courts.

The site change for the A-B match, from Andover High, was necessitated because of wet, rain-slicked outdoor courts which dried in time for the Tuesday afternoon match with Lowell.

The wins hiked coach Dave Hughes' Lady Warriors to 18-1 overall, with a 13-match win streak, and they were 13-0 this spring as Merrimack Valley Conference champs for an unprecedented 17th straight year.

The locals have stretched their conference win streak through 263 consecutive matches dating back to a 3-2 loss to Lowell on May 21, 1990. AHS is also 337-1 in its last 338 league matches.

Next up is a North semifinal against undefeated top seed Newton South (19-0).

The Lady Warriors hope to avenge their only loss as Dual County League champ Newton South won a classic 3-2 match on April 27.

Many observers feel the winner of this match will go on to capture the State Division 1 title.

State Individual Championships

The AHS doubles team of juniors Rikki Sartor and Kristina Black, displaying the kind of synchronized play that wins championships, captured the North Sectional Tournament title with five wins over a recent two-weekend stretch.

The North champs have advanced to the four-team State Tournament finals scheduled Saturday, June 17 at Clark University in Worcester.

The state finals in Worcester will bring together the four sectional champs from the North, South, Central and Western parts of the commonwealth to battle it out.

Sartor and Black are just two wins away from becoming the first AHS players ever to capture state individual titles.

Two years ago, Jodi Richard and Caroline Koch reached the same level before being ousted.

First Round
Andover 5
Acton-Boxboro 0

This one wasn't supposed to be quite this easy as the Lady Warriors swept all five matches in straight sets.

"Acton-Boxboro's final record (9-9) isn't a good reflection of their ability," said coach Hughes. "They play in a very tough league (Dual County), and six or seven of those losses came in close matches against Newton South (19-0), Concord-Carlisle (two-time reigning state champ), Boston Latin and Westford Academy.

"They were in tight, competitive matches against very strong teams all season.

"I really didn't expect us to win everything in straight sets. I wouldn't call it a total surprise – but it was impressive," said Hughes. "Every one of our girls played solid tennis from start to finish.

"A lot of our kids play all winter at the Willows – so they are familiar with and felt comfortable on those indoor courts.

"Hannah (Zarkar) played another senior (Alyssa McCree), one of the best players around, and her win (6-2, 6-4) set the tone for us," said Hughes.

Second singles Caroline Koch upended A-B's Kirsten Boyer 6-1, 6-2, and third singles Hannah Hoerner destroyed Deepti Kalluri 6-1, 6-0.

In doubles, North Sectional champs Rikki Sartor and Kristina Black leveled the Colonials' Alice Rem and Maria Burtieva 6-2, 6-3.

No. 2 tandem Heather Arvidson and Meredith Levenson humbled Anita Kluczeniak and Kris Ayers, 6-2, 6-4.

Lowell 0

The 5th-seeded Red Raiders, who finished 16-2 including a 5-0 sweep of Gloucester in the first round, suffered their only two losses of the spring to Andover including a similar 5-0 rout on May 22.

"There really were no suprirses in this match," said coach Hughes. "We knew exactly what to expect – and the lineups for both teams were the same as the first match a few weeks earlier.

"Our kids continued their aggressive play and it was nice to see their minds were focused on Lowell. There was no looking ahead to Newton South."

AHS ROUNDUP

AHS dropped only two games in six singles sets and four in four doubles sets.

First singles Hannah Zarkar rolled to a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Lowell's Leah Romanowsky.

Second singles Caroline Koch clicked off 12 straight games in a 6-0, 6-0 whitewash of Alyson Boehm.

Hannah Hoerner completed the singles domination with a 6-0, 6-1 conquest of Alex Hatem.

Top doubles tandem Rikki Sartor and Kristina Black pounded out a 6-1, 6-1 win over the Red Raiders' Victoria Trull and Colleen Barry.

Second doubles finished the same way with Heather Arvidson and Meredith Levenson rolling by the identical 6-1, 6-1 count against Katelyn Glover and Natalie Kyriazidis.

EARLIER MATCHES

Andover 5
Lowell 0

Few expected the unbeaten Red Raiders to challenge Andover – and they didn't.

In singles, No. 1 senior Capt. Hannah Zarkar and No. 3 Hannah Hoerner overpowered Lowell's Lea Romanowsky and Leia Friedman with 6-1, 6-1 victories.

Caroline Koch did not let Lowell's Alyson Boehm up for air as she stroked her way to a 6-0, 6-0 triumph at No. 2.

"Lowell's power is in its singles players," said coach Hughes. "We knew that's where the match would be won.

"All three of our girls came out strong and never let up – from beginning to end. They never allowed the Lowell girls to get into the match or gather any momentum."

Both doubles matches ended in 6-1, 6-0 AHS wins, Rikki Sartor and JooHee Yoon schooling Victoria Trull and Colleen Barry while Meredith Levenson and Heather Arvidson raced past Lowell's Natalie Kyriazidis and Katelyn Glover.

Andover 5
Chelmsford 0

The Lady Warriors mixed up the lineup and it all worked, starting with Hannah Hoerner at first singles where she trampled Swetha Shanbhag 6-2, 6-4 in this Tuesday afternoon match at the AHS courts.

JooHee Yoon switched from doubles to second singles and blasted the Lions' Erin Sullivan 6-0, 6-0, while senior Emma Haak stepped in at third singles for a 6-2, 6-1 conquest of Lauren Forni.

"Both JooHee and Emma were steady and calm even though they hadn't played many varsity singles matches this season," said coach Hughes.

Rikki Sartor and Kristina Black teamed at first doubles and trimmed Chelmsford's Jenn Byrne and Sam Pelosi 6-2, 6-4.

"First doubles was the highlight," said Hughes. "Those two Chelmsford girls are the other top team in the MVC. The first time we played it took three sets to beat them. We had a different pairing for this one – but the win was more decisive and that was nice."

Heather Arvidson and Meredith Levenson dominated at second doubles with a 6-0, 6-1 decision over Wafaa Muhammad and Laura Kalpas.

"It says a lot for our depth that we could substitute like we did today against a good team (Chelmsford is 9-5) and still dominate," said Hughes. "With all the rainouts – and so many matches bunched together (eight in seven days) – we're still able to manage the schedule without suffering in strength or performance."

Andover also swept all five one-set exhibition doubles matches, with victories by Capt. Liz McPartland and Patty Collins (6-0), Rachel Wetmore and Satin Zarkar (6-0), Capt. Casey Mitrano and Athena Lynch (6-0), Rachael Trotta and Stacey Saba (6-1), Meghan Mahesh and Jackie Collins (6-1).

Andover 5
Methuen 0

Sophomore Hannah Hoerner set the tone in this match, moving up from third to first singles and pounding out a 6-3, 6-1 triumph over Rangers' No. 1 player Han Nguyen.

"Hannah took advantage of her height (5'10") and pulled Nguyen out of her comfort zone, getting to a lot of short balls to score a number of points at the net," said coach Hughes.

AHS completely dominated the other four matches – losing just one game in eight sets.

Senior Emma Haak whitewashed the Rangers' Kelly Driscoll 6-0, 6-0 at second singles, while senior Capt. Liz McPartland played third singles and toppled Rosalind O'Connor 6-0, 6-1.

The Lady Warriors also showed no mercy in doubles, stampeding to a pair of 6-0, 6-0 sweeps.

Juniors Rikki Sartor and Kristina Black trimmed Methuen's Jessica Donovan and Karyn Erickson, while junior Heather Arvidson and senior Meredith Levenson schooled Brittany Forbes and Brianna Steinberg.

Andover 3
Boston Latin 2

The team score was tied 2-2 with second doubles the final match on the court.

There was never a doubt the Lady Warriors would win, however, as the No. 2 tandem of senior Meredith Levenson and junior Heather Arvidson tore apart the Wolfpack duo of Alicia Williams and Alex Dargan 6-0, 6-0 to nail down the 3-2 triumph.

Also winning easily for the locals were junior second singles Caroline Koch, who handled Latin's Tara Banani 6-2, 6-1, and sophomore third singles Hannah Hoerner with a 6-1, 6-0 romp over Meaghan Mulrooney.

Senior Capt. Hannah Zarkar became embroiled in a three-set marathon at first singles, Latin's Kara Ritchie eventually pulling out a 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 victory.

The Wolfpack win at first doubles was also a tug-of-war, Lara Hamad and Catrina Concalves pounding out a 7-6 (7-5), 7-5 decision as they outlasted AHS juniors Rikki Sartor and JooHee Yoon.

"All three of our singles played about as well as they can," said coach Hughes. "On paper first singles looked like it would go down to the wire – and it did. It was a battle between two very evenly-matched and talented players.

"Caroline (Koch) and Hannah (Hoerner) could have been in very competitive matches, too, but both came out on fire and never let up. Their opponents never got untracked because Caroline and Hannah didn't let them.

"The teams playing first doubles may be the two best in the state – or at least among the top five," said Hughes. "Rikki and JooHee staying competitive with the Latin girls is very encouraging.

"If they meet again in the tournament the outcome could be different."

There were no exhibition matches.

BOYS TENNIS

The Andover High boys tennis team, three-time reigning Merrimack Valley Conference champs, opened play in the MIAA Division 1 North Tournament with a lopsided 5-0 first-round romp over visiting Beverly at the Willows Racquet Club indoor courts in North Andover.

The site change, from Andover High, was necessitated because of wet, rain-slicked outdoor courts.

The Golden Warriors followed up with a 4-1 triumph over familiar Merrimack Valley Conference foe Chelmsford on Tuesday afternoon at the AHS courts.

The victories boosted coach Mike Wartman's crew to 17-1 overall.

The No. 3 seed Golden Warriors were scheduled back in action at the AHS courts in a semifinal versus Acton-Boxboro.

In the final week of regular season play, AHS finished 14-0 in the MVC following a pair of back-to-back wins over Haverhill, 5-0 and 4-1, and a classic 3-2 tug-of-war marathon victory versus top league challenger Chelmsford.

Those were interspersed with the only loss of the spring, 4-1, to traditional Eastern Mass. Division 1 power St. John's Prep of Danvers.

The MVC title is the 18th in coach Wartman's 22 years at the helm.

The Golden Warriors have won 42 straight in the conference since a 3-2 loss to Chelmsford on May 15, 2003.

North Sectional
Individual Tournament

Sophomore No. 1 singles Dave Adams, the last surviving AHS player in the North Individual Tournament, was beaten by Christo Schultz of Weston 6-3, 6-0 in the quarterfinal round.

Schultz went on to win a semifinal match before coming up short in the final, losing the North title match to Anton Nikolov of Ashland High 6-4, 7-6 (7-3).

Schultz's father, Bud, was ranked among the top 100 professional players in the world in the mid-1980's.

Andover 5

After eight days off the locals handled the No. 14 seed Panthers (9-7) with relative ease, sweeping all five matches while dropping only 11 games in six singles sets and seven games in four doubles sets.

"The kids enjoyed playing indoors for a change," said Wartman. "They were excited to get the tournament underway – and responded by playing some of their best tennis of the season."

First singles Dave Adams toppled Beverly's Andrew Dean 6-2, 6-2, while second singles Jeremy Hogan stopped Dan DiVincenzo 6-2, 6-3 and third singles Eric Krupnik slammed Sean Hutchinson 6-0, 6-2.

In doubles, top team Julian Vastl and Seth Davidovits trimmed the Panthers' Jay Norton and Brandon Dean 6-2, 6-4.

Second doubles Seth Johnson and Steve Ochs had no problem in a 6-1, 6-0 domination of Mike Sloan and Aarish Sheikl.

Beverly had eliminated Billerica, 4-1, in its tourney opener.

Andover and Beverly squared off once before in the tournament with a similar result, the locals rolling 5-0 in the first round of the 2003 event before Lexington registered a 3-2 victory in the quarterfinals to end the Golden Warriors' season.

Quarterfinal
Andover 4
Chelmsford 1

No. 6 seed Chelmsford (16-3), which defeated Masconomet Regional of Topsfield, 4-1, in its opener, suffered all three of its losses this spring to Andover (4-1 and 3-2 regular season).

In this encounter, AHS singles players Dave Adams, Jeremy Hogan and Eric Krupnik all swept their matches in straight sets while the rivals split a pair of three-set doubles.

"I was very pleased with how well our singles stepped up to the challenge," said coach Wartman. "When you play one another for the third time there are no secrets.

"Our guys played smart. They were patient, came to the net well and made very few unforced errors.

"Before the match I was a little worried about our seniors being tired from Senior Safari the night before," added Wartman.

In singles, No. 1 Adams buried the Lions' Alex Loyer 6-0, 6-0 while Hogan handled freshman Caleb Klick 6-3, 6-4 and Krupnik bested sophomore Timmy Rich 6-2, 6-3.

Both doubles were a struggle, with AHS top duo Seth Davidovits and Julian Vastl coming from behind to edge Chelmsford's Ken Sims and Alex Ciampi 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

CHS registered its point at second doubles where Corey Duggan and Pietro Stergiou outlasted Andover's Seth Johnson and Steve Ochs 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

"Seth and Julian got off to a rocky start and became steadier and steadier the longer they played," said Wartman. "Seth and Steve did a nice job getting back into their match by winning the second set. But in the end they were too erractic and not consistent enough to pull out the win."

EARLIER MATCHES

Andover 3
Chelmsford 2

With sophomore No. 1 Dave Adams sidelined by a pulled muscle suffered the night before the match, Andover had to juggle its lineup in this barnburner played at the Chelmsford courts on a recent Tuesday afternoon.

"It was our most exciting and competitive match of the season," said coach Wartman, whose team would have fallen into a first-place tie with Chelmsford (8-2) if the Lions had won. "Three of the five matches went the three-set distance and could have swung either way."

As the individual matches ended – and the players left the court – Andover had 1-0 and 2-1 leads that were erased.

The last match to finish, with the team score tied 2-2, was a 2 1/2-hour second-singles marathon between AHS senior Eric Krupnik and Chelmsford freshman Caleb Klick.

Klick won the first set, 7-6, with a 7-4 triumph in the tiebreaker, before Krupnik regrouped and rolled 6-3, 6-2 to keep the Golden Warriors undefeated.

"It was a nice comeback win," said Wartman. "Eric mixed up his shots well, was patient and very tough in the clutch. His serve was also a major factor.

"Klick is a strong opponent who is going to be an excellent player – but he's also a freshman and Eric's experience made a difference."

Andover freshman Eric Heath – who didn't know he was in the starting lineup until Dave Adams warmed up and it was determined he shouldn't play – took over at third singles and outlasted Chelmsford sophomore Timmy Rich 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

"Eric Heath stepped into a tough situation and came through," said coach Wartman. "He is equally comfortable at the baseline and coming to the net. His opponent (Rich) is a baseliner who doesn't make mistakes and gets everything back.

"Eric was forced to take the play to Rich and his aggressiveness paid off."

Heath's win gave the locals a 2-1 lead – until first doubles Julian Vastl and Seth Davidovits dropped a tough three-setter to Kenny Sims and Alex Ciampi of Chelmsford.

The Lions duo came from behind to post a 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 victory.

In addition to Krupnik and Heath, the Golden Warriors also got a crucial point at second doubles where senior Seth Johnson and junior Steve Ochs topped Corey Duggan and Pietro Stergiou of Chelmsford 6-4, 7-5.

"Seth and Steve played their best match of the season," said Wartman. "Seth volleyed well and Steve controlled the net. Both hit great returns and groundstrokes."

Senior No. 2 and Capt. Jeremy Hogan, elevated to first singles with Adams sidelined, lost to one of the league's top players as CHS senior veteran Alex Loyer chalked up the most convincing win of the day, 6-3, 6-1.

Andover had beaten Chelmsford 4-1 on May 5 at the AHS courts – the Lions' only other loss.

Andover 5
Haverhill 0

The Golden Warriors had a completely different lineup for this one, beginning at first singles where Ryan Frerichs looked at home in a 6-1, 6-4 victory over the visiting Hillies' Ramie Jacobson.

Why we like Perennials
Perennials come back . . . year after year in a myriad of different colors, textures, and heights. Many offer sweet fragrances as dianthus and peonies. No other group of plants is more versatile. Perennials come tall and stately, low and spreading and just about every shape and size imaginable. Lake Street has hundreds of varieties for a full season of bloom.

AHS ROUNDUP

■ BOYS TENNIS

Sophomore second singles Adam Trotta hung tough in the first set, which seemed to demoralize opponent Corey Fiset in a 7-6 (7-1), 6-2 Trotta tri umph.

"This was the match of the day," said coach Wartman. "Adam played a good athlete and won because he was patient, mixed up his shots and came to the net successfully."

It was the first varsity match for Trotta.

Junior Greg Boumil was never in trouble at third singles with a 6-1, 6-2 conquest of Haverhill's Wes Davis.

Sophomore Josh Mack and freshman Andrew Hirsh were in complete control in a 6-3, 6-1 first doubles' decision over Drew Angelos and Peter Marmots.

At second doubles, freshman Corey Frerichs and junior Alex Liu galloped past Phabian Schrammy and Chris Finger 6-1, 6-2.

Andover 4
Haverhill 1

The same two teams met on the Haverhill courts the following afternoon, Andover's fifth match in five days, in the makeup of a May 10 rain-out.

Three different AHS singles players dropped only six games in six sets

Seniors Eric Krupnik and Seth Johnson chalked up identical 6-2, 6-0 victories over the Hillies' Matt Karembelas and Mike Archambault at Nos. 1 and 2.

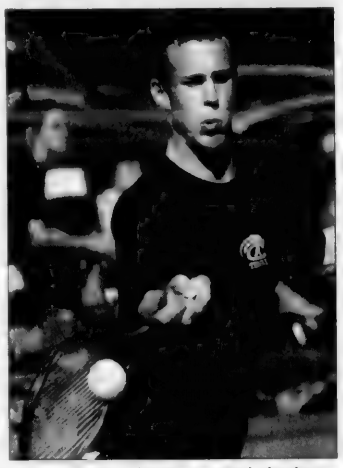

Junior Jason Dashtpeyma won at third singles 6-0, 6-2 over Ramie Jacobson.

Second doubles was the quickest match of the day as Josh Mack and Greg Boumil, playing together for the first time, teamed for a 6-0, 6-0 blitz of Haverhill's Andrew Bandelli and Nick Kozlowski.

The Golden Warriors, who surrendered only

Eric Krupnik in the third singles match.

Jeremy Hogan in the second singles match against Chelmsford.

five points in 14 MVC matches this spring, lost a tough one at first doubles.

A pair of Haverhill athletes, also outstanding ice hockey players, prevailed as goalie Ryan Burke and forward Corey Fiset dropped a first-set tiebreaker before rallying to edge Andover senior Capt. Jimmy Conway and junior Rustin Zarkar 6-7 (2-7), 7-5, 6-4.

St. John's Prep 4
Andover 1

The Eagles spoiled the locals' bid for a perfect regular season with this non-league win – one day after the tough 3-2 triumph over Chelmsford.

Andover picked up its lone point at first singles, where sophomore Dave Adams nudged past SJP's Wills Fallon for the second time in a week 7-6 (7-5), 6-4.

Four days earlier Adams bested Fallon 6-3, 6-1 in the North Sectional tourney.

SJP captured the other four matches – two of them handily and the other two not without a struggle.

At second singles, Jeremy Hogan gave former Eagles' No. 1 Tim Haladyna a scare before Haladyna pulled out a come-from-behind 4-6, 6-4, 7-5 victory.

First doubles was also interesting, Alex Lyons and James Holden of St. John's cruising and then sweating in a 6-1, 7-6 (7-1) win over locals Seth Johnson and Steve Ochs.

SJP won the other matches convincingly, Ben Slingerland over Eric Krupnik 6-3, 6-2 at third singles and second doubles Liam Houre and Mike Conway besting Phil Johnson and Eric Heath 6-2, 6-2.

"It was a competitive match and I was very pleased with how hard our kids played," said coach Wartman. "They came out focused, battling long and hard on a lot of points. Many of the games were much closer than the score.

"Hogan's match definitely could have gone either way. Krupnik faced the strongest player he's seen this season. There were a lot of long rallies but the St. John's kid was steadier.

"Their two doubles teams both made the North semifinals and are two of the best in the region," said Wartman. "They dominated play – but Johnson and Ochs made an impressive comeback from 2-5 to force the tiebreaker in the second set.

"Overall it was a good test – and it pushes us to play better," said Wartman.

Andover 5
Billerica 0

After having three straight matches postponed by rain (Haverhill, Lawrence, Central Catholic) over a 12-day stretch, the visiting Golden Warriors returned to the courts at Billerica with a vengeance.

"Except for a scrimmage match with Phillips Academy, our kids had not played in over a week," said coach Wartman. "We were a bit rusty – especially the doubles – and it showed at the start.

"But after the rough beginning the kids worked their way into it and played well."

All five matches were straight-set sweeps.

Dave Adams produced the most resounding victory at first singles, 6-0, 6-0 over the Indians' Steve Wilde.

Eric Krupnik also rolled at third singles with a 6-2, 6-0 cruise past Aaron Hopkins.

Jeremy Hogan was challenged at second singles before posting a 6-4, 6-2 decision over Billy Rios of BMHS.

First doubles had the closest match of the day, Seth Davidovits and Julian Vastl working hard for a 7-5, 6-4 triumph against Greg Rosa and Josh Bilodeau.

AHS second doubles Seth Johnson and Steve Ochs were steady in a 6-3, 6-1 decision over the host team's Bobby Berg and Josh Dickey.

The victory completed a season series sweep of Billerica, with Andover also winning the earlier confrontation, 5-0.

Andover 4
Central Catholic 1

Strong performances in the doubles highlighted this makeup victory at the Merrimack College courts.

Stepping in at No. 1 were sophomore Phil Johnson and freshman Eric Heath, who gave Seth Davidovits and Julian Vastl a rest on the way to a convincing 6-0, 6-3 victory over the Raiders' Darren DeLuca and John Davis.

Senior Capt. Jim Conway and junior Rustin Zarkar were crisp as they overpowered Joe Zucchi and Brendan Giblin of CCHS 6-0, 6-1 at second doubles.

First singles Dave Adams continued to dominate his MVC foes with a 6-0, 6-3 romp past Corey Michaud.

Jeremy Hogan of AHS got a workout at second singles on the way to a 6-4, 6-4 decision over stubborn Matt Sansoucie.

Central's Eric Guerrero became only the second conference player this season to take a point from the Golden Warriors, battling past Eric Krupnik 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 in a 90-minute third singles match.

Andover 5
Methuen 0

Coach Wartman turned this MVC match over to the underclassmen, and the Golden Warriors' future frontliners didn't disappoint as three juniors, three sophomores and one freshman lost just one game in six singles sets and two games in four doubles sets.

Freshman Eric Heath moved in at first singles and rocked the Rangers' John Kelly 6-1, 6-0.

Junior Rohit Sangal and sophomore Phil Johnson were even more efficient, both winning 12 straight games in identical 6-0, 6-0 sweeps of Cameron Dadducci and Jared Haney at second and third singles.

A pair of Jasons, sophomore Lasser and junior Dashtpeyma, had no trouble at first doubles as they rolled past Methuen's Sam Hajj and Jeremy Johnson 6-0, 6-1.

Junior Ryan Frerichs and sophomore Adam Trotta completed the AHS romp with a 6-1, 6-0 conquest of brothers Keith and Paul Ducet at second doubles.

"It was a perfect opportunity to give some of the younger players varsity match experience," said Wartman. "They all came through in a big way."

For once Mother Nature cooperated.

"It rained before we got there (Methuen) and then stopped until just after we left t the end of the match," said Wartman.

Andover 5
Lawrence 0

Eric Heath took another turn at first singles and was once again impressive with a 6-0, 6-0 blitz of the host Lancers' Jose Brennes.

"Eric did well to win the match so decisively, because he (Brennes) is having a pretty good season," said Wartman.

Rohit Sangal also won 12 straight games at third singles in a 6-0, 6-0 romp over Johnson San, and Phil Johnson surrendered only one game at second singles during his 6-0, 6-1 cruise past Charlie San.

Both Golden Warrior doubles teams ot on and off the court quickly with identical 6-0, 6-1 victories, No. 1 Jimmy Conway and Rustin Zarkar topping Bao Dinh and Son Dinh while No. 2 Jason Dashtpeyma and Jason Lasser tore through Lawrence's Tony Perez and Qua Nguyen.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS MASSACHUSETTS HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING

A Design Public Hearing will be held by MassHighway to discuss the proposed Traffic Signals Improvement Project for the Intersection of Route 125 at Salem Street and Stinson Road, Andover, MA.

WHERE: Memorial Hall Library, Memorial Hall, Elm Square on North Main Street (Route 28) at the intersection of Elm, Main and Central Streets, Andover, MA 01810

WHEN: Tuesday, June 20, 2006 at 7:00 P.M.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this hearing is to provide the public with the opportunity to become fully acquainted with the Traffic Signals Improvement Project for the Intersection of Route 125 at Salem Street and Stinson Road, Andover, MA. All views and comments made at the hearing will be reviewed and considered to the maximum extent possible.

PROPOSAL: The proposed project at the intersection of Route 125 at Salem Street and Stinson Road includes new traffic signals, which will respond to real-time vehicle approaches. Roadway widening, new pavement markings and a fire pre-emption system to support the existing system are also proposed.

A secure right-of-way is necessary for this project. Acquisitions in fee and permanent or temporary easements may be required. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts is responsible for acquiring all needed rights in private or public lands. MassHighway's policy concerning land acquisitions will be discussed at this hearing.

Written views received by MassHighway subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the time and date listed above. Plans will be on display one-half hour before the hearing begins, with an engineer in attendance to answer questions regarding this project. A project handout is available on the MassHighway website listed below.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements made at the Public Hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to John Blundo, P.E., Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Highway Department, 10 Park Plaza, Boston, MA 02116. Such submissions will also be accepted at the hearing. The final date of receipt of these statements and exhibits for inclusion in the public hearing transcript will be ten (10) days after this Public Hearing.

The community has declared that this facility is accessible to all in compliance with the ADA / Title II. However, persons in need of ADA / Title II accommodations should contact Juan Flores by phone VOICE (617) 973-7281, TDDY (617) 973-7306 or email juan.flores@mhd.state.ma.us. Requests must be made at least 10 days prior to the date of the public hearing.

In case of inclement weather, hearing cancellation announcements will be posted on the MassHighway website http://www.mass.gov/mhd.

Returning to the land of King Zero and Kill the Kid

Bill Dalton

While writing about Stowe School and playgrounds, I was thinking about what a kid's life was like before organized childhood. I'm old enough that I have long, clear memories about what it was like to be a "free range" kid in Andover during summer vacations.

Little League, which began in 1952, was the beginning of organized summer play for boys. Although most of us who played Little League liked it, some of us liked sandlot ball more and continued to play it. As the number of Little League teams expanded and the season was stretched into months previously reserved for family vacations – July and August – sandlot ball almost disappeared. When other summer childhood events and sports, including playground activities, became more systematic and adult-controlled, unorganized childhood summers faded forever away.

Today, organized childhood is mandatory. Aside from safety concerns (which I do not minimize), there is one overriding reason for the organization of childhood: parental work. For middle-class America, the promise that came out of the 1950s was that we would be able to work fewer hours while our incomes increased. While this promised panacea seems like a pathetic prediction today, in the mid-20th Century, advancing technologies, including robots, were someday supposed to make it all happen. And the biggest thing was that atomic power would produce energy for factories, homes, and transportation that would be practically cost-free. These hopes were widely believed and were supposed to come true by the 1980s – certainly no later than the millennium.

I slap my fool's forehead and ask, what happened? In a phrase: longterm prognostication hooey.

Not only that, the exact opposite thing happened. While it was a sure bet that big computers would become important (and Dick Tracy WAS wearing a telephone wristwatch), no one came close to predicting the revolution caused by the Internet and cell phones until just a short while before it (and they) happened.

Hecktadoodle, I'm on e-mail 15 minutes after I wake up, and I check the thing just before sleep. I even check it in the middle of the night sometimes. The ridiculous tones or buzzing of the cell phone find me anywhere I go, including the men's room. I don't take vacations, I simply move away from my office for a few days. I am fully hooked – and that it is not too strong a word – to the communication age.

And so are many of you. With young, as well as middle-aged parents in Andover, it is normal that both parents work hard, even if one of them is at home. Playing with children means going to games and recitals, or driving them to activities or playdates. The spectre of higher education costs and the ogre of material wealth has put most middle-class parents on a one-way choo-choo train that has no stops.

Then, of course, there is the necessity of saving for retirement, especially now that generations of the D.C. dolts have managed to jeopardize the future of social security by their failure to have enough courage to act. However, we are the "Little Engines That Could" and will pull those all the burdens over the high mountains.

But alas, I waiver from my usual euphoric episodes from the past. Forgive my occasional grousing.

Bill McCullom, who sent in the patrol leader picture last week, also sent me a wonderful description of a sandlot baseball game called "King Zero." I quote from him:

"It was a long time ago but here is what I remember. Three or more kids sitting around on a nice summer day, we always had our gloves on the handlebars of the bike and a bat close at hand. Someone yelled "King Zero" which instantly meant he was first at bat in this game. The kid who next yelled "Scrub" was the catcher and the next batter when King Zero was out. "Scrub 1" would pitch and the Scrubs 2, 3, 4, etc., were in the field and would work their way up to get a chance to bat. The batter stayed "up" until he was put out at which time he went to the end. So the game went on forever or until the street lights came on.

"We would play for hours and no parents were involved. We'd play all summer or until our internal clock told us it was football season and we would switch to 'Kill the kid!"

Bill didn't describe "Kill the kid," so let me. From a rules standpoint, it was easy. Whoever had the football would throw it to someone else. Catching the football was not optional; not to catch it would be "chicken," and everyone would act like you'd caught it anyway. The boy now with the ball would run like crazy while the rest of us chased him yelling, "kill the kid." When he was tackled, everyone, no matter how many of us there were, would pile on. After we unpiled, the kid who'd been "killed" got up and threw it to another unfortunate player and the game continued. Bloody noses and lips were common and were worn as badges of honor. Crying was unacceptable unless the injury was heinous, which hardly ever happened.

While "Kill the kid" didn't teach us the finer skills or strategy of the game, we had plenty of other pick-up football games, usually involving three or four to a side, that did do that. And strangely – I know my description doesn't do this justice – certain unfair behaviors and dirty playing were frowned on. (Punching and kneeing being the worst infractions.) The fact was that we played together because we were friends, not enemies.

Kevin Connors, who is a lieutenant in Andover's Fire Department, and a bit younger than I, sent an interesting e-mail. He is the son of one of Andover's legends, Baron Connors, of whom I have written before and will, no doubt, again. Kevin spoke respectfully about the Stack sisters at Stowe School:

"...they were tough. When I was in sixth grade, I was a patrol leader, but because of some fooling around throwing the football I lost my badge, as did some of my friends. The sad part was that all patrol leaders went to see the Red Sox at the end of the year, and we couldn't go. We had to spend the day at Stowe in class with MISS STACK. However, it turned out to be quite a fun day and my lasting memories of her was that she really was a nice person."

That comment is representative of several that I received.

Kevin continued:

"I have great memories of the playgrounds... I learned how to play just about everything there. The staff was fantastic – Micky Yacho, from Chickering Court, to name one. The playground would open at 9 o'clock and close around 3:30 or so with an hour for lunch. We would be there all the time...

"What was best (were the) inter-playgound rivalries. We would play all the other playgounds in sports, Ballardvale, West, and the brand new Rec Park. I think Indian Ridge was gone by this time, 1963. Softball was one game, as well as flag football. We were good, and it was always a big game against Rec Park because they were loaded in those days.

"The other things the playgrounds had were tournaments - chess, checkers, anything, just to stay busy. Playgrounds in those days were just that – playgrounds – outdoors, never inside. It was a ball and I don't ever recall complaining..

"I just want you to know that we were lucky in those days. Everything we wanted was at the playground. It was simple and fun."

I'll have more emails that I've received in future columns. Please send emails to bill dalton@billdaltononline.com

PATROL PHOTO

Bill Dalton and the Townsman have received several responses about last week's photo of the Central School patrol leaders published on the back page.

Keep those responses coming.

Next week, we expect to republish the photo along with the identifications that have been provided by that point.
